PORI ARTHUR, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6, 1923

Queen of Port Arthur Contest Must End June 23, Says Committee

THE QUEEN OF PORT ARTHUR voting contest will close at midnight June 23.

This, the culminating feature of the Quarter Centennial celebration, is going to be more elaborate than even those in charge at first had any idea.

It now becomes necessary to close the contest five days earlier than anticipated and previously announced to give ample time to the preparing of the queen's gown. It will require days to make up the gorgeous costume "Her Majesty."

will do for this momentous occasion.

THE COMMITTEE appointed to select the queen's wardrobe state they cannot possibly wait longer than June 23 to begin their preparations. And, a day or so will be required in which to announce the winner after the close of the contest.

THERE'S A ROYAL DIadem to be made expressly for the queenly head of some young woman of Port Arthur. There's a majestic scepter to be secured for her noble hand that will rule the city for the 24 hours of Port Arthur's Quarter Centennial celebration on July Fourth. And, a thousand and one fluffs and frills, foreign to a masculine mind.

Who will it be?

Just what young woman will wear the diadem is being determined daily in The News Queen Voting Contest.

NAMES OF NEW ENTRANTS are being received constantly. Announcement of them will be made to the public in Thursday's edition of The News. Others will be received up to the close of the contest on June 23.

However, there will be no "run-off election." The race is strictly democratic and the first selection on a majority of votes cast will be proclaimed the centennial queen. Names written in on ballots printed in The News will be counted for the votes they represent. It will be espetially a popularity contest—the basis of votes to determine the winner.

REMEMBER, POLITICS, Number's coupon entitles you to ten votes; the daily issue counts five votes. Cast your ballot every day and take advantage of them all. The coupon appears Page 2.

Presidents of the United States are elected by the people. It is but fair, then, that Port Arthur people should select the queen.

Officials Believe it Would Remove Discord Cause

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The United States government has rejected a suggestion that the whole question of bringing liquor across the three-mile limit into American waters in foreign ships be submitted to an international conference of maritime nations.

World Court Not Recognized

This government regards the question as primarily domestic and will decide to adhere to its policy without assistance from all other governments' tribunal such as the world court, if an effort is made to take the question there.

The budget is in the hands of City Clerk E. H. Miles, who is busily engaged in preparing it; Miles let it be known at 1:30 this afternoon that the program would not be completed for some time.

An estimate of the expenditures for the departments, however, was obtained, the following being approximate:

For the fire department, around $65,000 will be appropriated, it is understood.

For street and bridge work, about $70,000 will be appropriated.

Frenchman Charges Pro Officers in Connivance In Landing Booze on Gulf

PARIS, June 6.—Charges that certain quantities of liquor are being smuggled into United States, Gulf and Atlantic ports, with connivance of prohibition agents at American ports, were made by secretary Chauvelot of the Seamen's Federation today.

The prohibition agents receive one dollar for every dollar smuggled ashore, according to Chauvelot.

Paris, June 6.—Charges that certain quantities of liquor are being smuggled into United States, Gulf and Atlantic ports, with connivance of prohibition agents at American ports, were made by secretary Chauvelot of the Seamen's Federation today.

Will Serve Two Ends

By this means the American government can possibly uphold the supreme court's ruling barring all liquor, even sea stores, from ships entering the 3-mile zone and at the same time eliminate the danger of destroying friendly relations.

One suggestion that has been advanced is that agreement be made that the nations co-operating with this government in preventing smuggling of liquor shall be given permits that will allow crews ration liquor to be brought in as medicinal liquor, under strict regulations for its consumption while the ships are in an American port.

The majority of high administration officials, however, favor another course.

Concessions to Reopen Question?

They want President Harding to ask Congress next December to modify the drastic provisions of the Volstead law, eliminating causes of international discord such as this.

The danger that such opening of the law to amendment might precipitate anew the whole wet and dry fight, has been urged against this. But everybody is now convinced that Congress is going to reopen that question anyway.

George Craig, Sr., who discusses fishing from time to time, says the following pointers may be of assistance to the tellers of fish stories:

1. Size up your listener before you begin. If he looks easy, add five pounds; extra easy, ten pounds.

2. Never bring the fish home.

3. Work without photographs.

Many a man has been hung on circumstantial evidence.

4. Take your wife into your confidence. Brings her if necessary. If that doesn't succeed, try another wife.

5. Fish without a guide. A guide's memory is notoriously exact.

6. Always go to some stream or lake which no one in your town has fished. If you do not know of such a stream or lake, invent one.

7. After you've made up your story, stick to it.

$150 FIRE LOSS

Stock of Matches Causes Damage to City Market

Combustion of a stock of matches in the north shelf, resulted in a fire at the City Market, 237 Proctor street, at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, causing $150 damage.

Being in the business district all of the fire apparatus of Central station answered the call. Finding the doors locked the glass was broken out and members of the fire force entered the store and with the aid of chemicals extinguished the fire before it had made much headway.

Two sections of shelving and the wall were considerably scorched, while the stock in these sections was destroyed.

TAX SYSTEM EXPERTS HERE

San Tone Crew to Speed Up Unit Installation

J. Ben Stoner of the Stoner-Gallagher-Gross firm, San Antonio, arrived here this morning with four engineers and opened an office in the city hall preparatory to installing the unit system of equalization of land and building values in this city.

The entire force comprise Stoner, engineer George Ehrenborg, who will engineer the land and building surveys, and a number of clerical employees.

Officers will be in the front part of the city hall, adjacent to the tax collector.

The unit system, Mr. Stoner said, is being installed by this company at New Orleans, Bossier Parish, La., Marshall, Tyler, and San Angelo, Texas.

DAIRYMAIDS TO START MILKING MARATHON

Failure to park automobiles parallel on Waco and Austin streets, between Proctor and Fourth streets, will result in a fine of $5 and costs, for first offense, beginning Monday, June 11. Chief W. W. Covington said Wednesday morning.

This new regulation went into effect this morning, and while it is first instituted only Austin street, Covington said he felt that both streets should be covered by the enforcement.

"During these next few days we ask the public to accustom themselves to this regulation and hope that we will receive full cooperation in this matter. Beginning Monday morning, all violations will result in prosecution, as automobile owners are being given enough time to comply with the ordinance," Covington said.

Discussion of the proposed new lighting system over the city occupied some little attention of the councilmen during the short session. However no definite steps concerning the location of the new lights over the residential section, which will probably be installed under the new budget were taken.

The unit system, Mr. Stoner said, is being installed by this company at New Orleans, Bossier Parish, La., Marshall, Tyler, and San Angelo, Texas.

BODY OF GIRL*OFFICER OFFERS
BOOZE AS ALIBI*Corpse Found on Beach, Her Hand Clutching Rosary

MILWAUKEE, June 7.—The body of a girl about 20 years washed up on the beach at the North Point pumping station today, where it was found by Fred England.

As the condition of the body indicated to Deputy Coroner Henry Grundman that it was 20 years old, he expressed the belief that death was the result either of suicide or accidental drowning. No marks of violence were found.

Was Rosary in Hand

When Mr. England came upon the corpse, clutching in the hand was a rosary. The only other definite clue to the girl's identity other than her clothing was a handkerchief with the initial "H" in one corner.

The body was clothed in a black silk dress, silk stockings and black oxfords. A short distance up the beach were found a light spring coat and a straw hat with flowers gathered about the crown. Metal arch supports were found in the shoes.

Believed to Be Polish

The features indicated that the girl might be of Polish descent. She was a blonde, weighed about 125 pounds, and was 5 feet tall.

A check of the descriptions of missing girls listed at police headquarters failed to reveal any clue. There is no pier or other projection within half a mile of the point where body and coat and hat were found, so that if the girl ended her own life she must have walked out into the lake to a point beyond her depth.

Luther Langston, league manager, declared that the situation was not discouraging. "We still have our conferences," he stated, referring to the alleged break with the governor. Governor Walton will make no statement.

PAULSBORO, N. J., June 7.—The "flying flivver" which Georges Barbot, French aviator, calls his "aviette" was in a garage here today wrecked almost beyond repair.

Barbot, in an attempted flight from New York to Washington in his aerodynamic freak, was caught in a gust of wind late yesterday while passing over here and crashed into a tree before he could get his machine under control.

In the fall a wing was badly damaged, but the aviator escaped without a scratch. The machine, however, was disabled and the plane was left in a field.

Barbot announced his intention of returning to New York and again attempting the trip, but meanwhile some air hunters arrived on the scene. In their desire to secure a piece of the airplane which has been the talk of the world, they damaged the motor and wrecked the frame work.

PAYING THE BILL

Any group of men composing a party, as a rule, are good natured and entertaining, but when the time comes to pay the bill there is often a quarrel. The state of Texas is a pretty big party. It costs better than a million a month. A state legislature first acts as spender. Generally there is little quarrel over the spending item. The legislature is now reconvened for the purpose of getting the money to pay the bills. The result will be days and days of high blood pressure and blood sweat. Various groups of legislators represent various pocket books. Roughly they are the pocket books of a group such as merchants, wholesalers, farmers, oil men, capitalists, insurance executives, manufacturers, and lumber men. No group really wants to pay the bill if those who constitute the group can get the other group or groups to pay it.

"That means to be a fine animal you have there," said a man on Travis street yesterday to a Houston sport who was about to get into his buggy.

"Fine! There's nothing finer in the United States. That horse has got Blackie-tan, Jay Eye See, and Nancy Hanks blood in him. You won't find a better animal in Texas. He's made it time and again in 2:10. I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for him. I think more of that horse than anything I've got. Thinking of buying a horse?"

"No," said the man, "I just thought I'd ask. I'm the tax assessor, and I'm kinder looking around at things." The sport got out of his buggy and went up quite close to the other man.

"See here," he said. "That's a fancy price I put on that horse. He ain't worth nothing like that. You see he ran away with my mother-in-law some time ago and broke her jaw. Naturally I think a heap of him. It's sentiment sir, pure sentiment. You can put that horse's actual value at one fifty-one fifty and not a cent more. Now don't forget."

YOU AND I

COLD

Roger Dolan, fishing in the Canadian north, telegraphs that the season is so cold and backward up there, the settlers are thinking of planting Christmas trees and icicles in their gardens. Dolan, of a scientific bent of mind, also reports that none of the mosquitoes he has killed so far had hypodermes for stinging. He thinks possibly this is because they broke them off in him last year.

WEALTH

A lawsuit reveals that the late William Penn Snyder left an estate of 40 million dollars.

It starts one thinking about our system, when one man can accumulate and leave this much, yet not one American in 1000 ever heard of him. Did you? He was an iron baron—owned furnaces in the Shenango valley, ore freighters on the Great Lakes and big iron mines in the Lake Superior country, not counting his sidelines.

RICHEST

Hugo Stinnes is worth only a fifth as much as Henry Ford, world's richest man, figuring Ford's fortune at $50 millions. Ford really is richer, for his annual business income before the tax man gets him is equivalent to 5 per cent on $280 million dollars.

The older Rockefeller would still be richer than Henry if he hadn't given away and endowed by hundreds of millions until today only 300 to 500 million dollars stand between him and the poorhouse. What charities will appeal to Ford when he begins distributing his wealth on a big scale-back to its source?

JOHN D.

Rockefeller and Ford have many things in common, in addition to their industries being interlocked. John furnishing the gasoline, Ford using it up. Both have surrounded themselves with high-salaried experts, men of the $600 to $1000 a year class.

Both are wizards at efficiency. Less than a tenth of one per cent of the gross receipts of Standard of New Jersey, for instance, goes for salaries and all other management charges.

John D. also has for a generation paid his employees as well as Ford. Why is he unpopular, Ford popular?

FATE

It's queer how our lives mysterious are linked to others, paths crossing time and again. Spiritually we travel through eternity in "circles" or groups.

Near Rochester, N. Y., a farmer saves a drunken man from drowning. An hour later, homeward bound, the farmer's auto hits and fractures the skull of the drunk as he unexpectedly staggers out onto the road from the darkness. That is fate's cross, crowning with a vengeance. The victim is thinking it over in the hereafter.

It will soon be time to decide what you are going on your vacation route.

They more think twice before they while others speak twice before they think.

WORLD ON WHEELS

"The world is on wheels and will never get off," declared Henry Ford in a message from Detroit to the Wall Street Journal, asserting that the Ford Motor company would maintain its present record output not only through the summer but through the year. Sure the world is on wheels, William Gibbs McAdoo is on wheels. On his return from Europe Oscar W. Underwood will be on wheels. Governor Al Smith is on wheels and the drys of America are going to do their best to keep him on wheels. President Harding is on wheels. All the big political leaders are on wheels and wheels are bursting in their cars. This government is on wheels, both federal and state. Governor Neff is responsible for the saying that Texas must be on wheels as it costs the agents of government, or rather the tax payers who pay the bills, several hundred thousand dollars a year to travel about a bit.

LETTER FROM BETTY STOKLEY

TO HER FRIEND, ALICE HAMILTON

STEPSON ASKS BRIDE'S ARREST

Action Sought When She Moves With Furniture

STERLING, Ill., June 7.—Mrs. Willis Marshall Ward, 38 years old, formerly of Chicago, bride of a few months of Judge Henry C. Ward, 72, is fighting a warrant issued by her stepson, Assistant United States District Attorney P. H. Ward, who charged she violated the Illinois law forbidding remarriage of a divorced person within a period of six years.

Reinforced by her son, Charles H. Marshall, a Chicago student the dashingly divorcee has barricaded herself in her home and sent word to officials that she "is too ill to be arrested."

Step George Fortesque told me he thought that was the smartest thing he had heard in many moons. He didn't say "many moons" because he is English, you know.

That night Vera told me she thought I was very fresh and that little girls should be seen and not heard in the drawing room. Between you and me, Alice, I think Vera would like to be Lady Fortesque, but she has got as much chance of being it as you have. I think he comes here because I amuse him.

Isn't it strange that sisters are such cats? From what you write me about your sister Leslie, she seems to think she is still "it" in your family, and I know that I'll be nothing at all in mine until Vera is married.

By the way, if your Karl Whitney comes over here this summer are you going to tell him that I know about the pearls? Isn't it grand, Alice, to have a perfectly wonderful secret like that? It makes your life just one series of thrills.

Every morning when I wake up I wonder if the secret will be found out today for, of course, you know that some day Leslie's husband is going to find out that those pearls are real and then there is going to be a regular dynamic explosion in your family. I don't blame you for wanting to be on this side of the ocean when it starts.

From what you wrote me in your last letter, I think if you really want to marry Karl Whitney we can get him engaged to you while he is over here where your sister can't interfere. I know my sister won't, because she is so engrossed in trying to hook Lord George that she can't think of anything else.

Speaking of Lord George, what do you think he asked me the other day? He came up on the terrace where I was sitting in the hammock, seated himself in a chair and looked at me very carefully without saying a word for a long time. Then he said:

"Oh, I say, little one, are you what they call a 'flapper' in America? You are nothing like our flappers, don't you know."

"No," I answered emphatically, "I am not a flapper, but Sister Vera is. She is the kind of a girl they call flappers over there."

He looked at me a moment and then began to laugh. "You are spoofing me," he said, "but at that you are a bright one, throwing your weight around this way." (That is English slang.)

Wouldn't it be nice, Alice, if when your Karl Whitney comes over here I could borrow Lord George for a little while from Vera? I'm not a real live authoress for nothing, you know.

So glad you are coming and ready hope that no one will find out about the pearls until after you have left. An intrigue makes life so interesting.

BETTY.

THE SUMMONS

By BEPTON BRALEY

When your feet begin to itch For the long and dusty road, And you're sick of quarters which are your present-day abode; Then it's time to pack your kit And it's time to up and blow, And there's no going fighting it, For you've simply gotta go.

You must go.

Start to tramp it to and fro, Take your blankee-roll and dust, Go you will and go you must;

When the fever's in your veins You must go!

Oh, I've settled down a lot And I've sworn I wouldn't stir, But would buy a little cot,

Find a girl and marry her; Then my feet began to itch.

And my wife at home was slow, And my nerves began to twitch, So I simply had to go.

Aint it so?

You must go.

Quit your home and job and blow, Take your blankee-roll and pack,

Hit the rovers' endless track;

When the fever's in your veins You must go!

Andy Gump Butts Into Election, Nearly Spoils 40,000 Ballots

OAKLAND, Calif., June 7.—It took official action by the city council here Thursday to remove Andy Gump from the municipal primary ballot, after the city attorney had ruled that his presence imperiled the validity of 40,000 votes cast for mayor. When the official count of votes cast at the recent municipal election was made, it was discovered that some enthusiastic voter had written in Andy's name for mayor. Counting was halted until the council investigated, when it was declared that Gump was a mythical person. His ballot was canceled.

According to the city attorney, Andy almost cost the city the price of another election.

All the big political leaders are on wheels and wheels are bursting in their cars. This government is on wheels, both federal and state. Governor Neff is responsible for the saying that Texas must be on wheels as it costs the agents of government, or rather the tax payers who pay the bills, several hundred thousand dollars a year to travel about a bit.

PEERAGE FARCE, SAYS SPONSBY

British M. P. Would Abolish Hereditary Titles

LONDON, June 7.—"Hereditary titles of the English peerage minister to vanity, encourage corruption, lead to flattery and snobbishness, and in the eye of the majority of intelligent persons are becoming ridiculous," Arthur Ponsonby, M. P., told the house of commons on introducing his bill to abolish the present system of titled aristocracy.

Ponsonby told the commons that when he and his labor colleagues assumed power they would not confer peerages for party services or merit or anything else. With this chance the peer factor may sometime be closed, it is possible that title-hunting American women may have to dig even deeper into papar's bank roll in order to close a deal.

Ponsonby's bill was read a first time in the commons, but when it comes up for second reading there will be a different story. Ponsonby will probably save it for use when Ramsay MacDonald moves into the House Number 10.

SON MAY DON KITCHIN'S SHOES IN LOWER HOUSE

KINSTON, N. C., June 7.—The congressional seat made vacant by the death of Claude Kitchin, liberal minority leader, will remain in the Kitchin family if the democratic executive committee approves.

Two candidates for the seat, J. N. House of Kinston and J. G. John Kerr of Warrenton, agreed to stand aside and let Mills Kitchin succeed his father in congress if the committee to go on.

When brother Arthur rose up to shatter the peace, he death the Ponsonby family roofed a severe shaking.

"I believe," said Ponsonby, in supporting his bill, before the commons, "that peers of ancient lineage would be ready to drop their titles in view of the colleagues that have been presented to them within the last few years."

This was a dig at the practice of Lloyd-George, who set a record for the creation of new peerages. That holders of ancient titles resent the infusion of upstart blood into the house of lords is borne out by a story told by the holder of one of the oldest titles in England concerning an incident at the opening of the present session of parliament.

The holder of the hon. title walked into the cloak room of the house of lords and placed his umbrella in the stand as had been his custom for years past.

An attendant stepped up and suggested that he be allowed to guard the umbrella until the noble lord returned.

"Quite unnecessary," said gentleman expostulated.

FLOAT BY CIVITANS

Decision to enter a float in the Port Arthur Centennial Parade was made today by the Civitan Club, the first civic organization to take this action.

The float will be gotten up by a committee composed of T. F. Brooks, chairman, and Oscar W. Vaughan, and Charles B. Stevenson.

WESTERN CLUBS LAN TORNADO OR NEW YORK

her Nines Attempt To Check Leaders

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, June 7.—Something is going to be done out the New York monopoly in world's series in strain of trade.

A tornado conjured by mid-sterners is again forming as the Yankees lead their near-opponents by 124 points and the Giants have a lead of 5 points in the pennant race. These runaway races — following two successive world series when the New York clubs are not ping pocketbooks of the other major-league figures plainly show. Nor are they increasing interest in baseball throughout the country.

The insistent owners have tried taking New York at its own game, pouring money into a baseball machine, but that hasn't helped any, misery ground upon thousands of backs in a meat chopper he figured would turn out a money-making club, but he got only—hush.

Ville Kamm would have been worth $100,000 to anyone else, but he hasn't cashed a cent for the White Sox who still are languishing in the air with prospects that they will spin there. There is even talk now if Comiskey is sick of the job and willing to sell his franchise.

Meanwhile the Yankees and Giants continue to run away with the pennant and the money. Both apparently are in a class by themselves and destined to stage a third successive private world series in New York unless that "something" is soon.

It took the International League owners several years to break the Baltimore team which ran away with things in that circuit and it business in other towns. The movement against New York has been far way for some time; but the noise is becoming a roar and the threats to be an eruption.

HINKS HE WILL BEAT DEMPSEY

m Gibbons Confident Of Outcome

SHELBY, Mont., June 7.—"I am as confident as ever that I can beat Dempsey over the jumps," m. Gibbons declared today as he sat in the sun-shine on the front porch of his new home here, where he is at training for his bout with the heavyweight champion, July 4.

"If I weren't sure I would win it I would be called off right now," said as he twirled his new Bangalore hat, presented by a St. Paul advertiser.

Gibbons was holding an informal reception for the townspeople. "I will always feel grateful to the people of Shelby for giving me this opportunity which has been denied eastern promoters for two years," said. "We had to come out west to our chance."

I am not underestimating Jack's fighting ability, but I am very confident I can knock him out before 10 rounds."

Gibbons' wife and three boys arrived Wednesday night from St. Paul, a challenger will not do any heavy work before Friday.

Young Writes Words to Daughter's Music and Whales' Tunes of Bellingham Whalers Theme

Edna L. Larkin and her mother. Below, Edna in a field of Tulips.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., June 7.—Young Bellingham celebrated its annual tulip festival recently, little 5-year-old Edna L. Larkin was the proud heroine of the occasion.

For it was her own tulip love song that thousands sang during the three days of the festival, and the gentle words of her mother that soothed their ears.

Edna is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Larkin of this city. From early childhood she developed a love for music, and when she showed talent at improvising tunes, her parents encouraged her. She has grown so proficient with the bow that now, at the age of nine, she plays first violin in the D'Autrilleville orchestra and in the junior orchestra of the Bellingham Normal School.

First Success

"Tulip Love"—the rollicking waltz sung at the festival—is Edna's first big success, although she had been submitting bits of her genius to her parents ever since she felt music in her system. The tune came to her while she was toying at the piano—another of her accomplishments—and her mother was away.

When Mrs. Larkin returned, Edna showed her the song. Mrs. Larkin was so impressed by it that she sat down and wrote verses for it.

But little Edna didn't like her mother's first attempt. So Mrs. Larkin had to reconstruct her efforts until she got what her daughter finally agreed bespoke the thoughts she expressed in her music. It was the romance and courtship of the spring flowers.

The completed song, to little Edna's music, is thus:

Tulip Love

Come, let us go a-slaying, o'er the hills where tulips grow.
There dainty flower maidens dance while the gentle breezes blow,
Daffodils and jonquils blow, hold—

They come to woo with honeyed words and oft ring crowns of gold.

Refrain

Come, dear tulip, dance with me, Love shall ne'er grow cold.

Oh, let me press your crimson lips To my loving heart of gold.

Come to the tulip's wedding on the verdant village green, There the golden daffodil is wedded to his queen.

Bumblebee's the person, frogs their music trill, While the busy honeybee serves supper on the hill.

Wonders of Ancient Ur Revealed by Explorers

Cities Ancient Before King Tut's Time Expected to Be Revealed Beneath Old Home of Abraham

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Temples and cities that were real "ancient history" long before King Tutankhamun ruled in Egypt are expected to be excavated in Ur, Mesopotamia, by the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. George E. Gordon, director of the University of Pennsylvania Museum, is now in London to confer with Sir Frederick Kenyon of the British Museum on the work on the site of ancient Babylon next season.

Already the joint expedition has uncovered a continuous history of Ur between 4000 and 2300 B. C. This however, is but a starter, as the surface of the ground has hardly been scratched.

Dr. C. Leonard Woolley, director of the joint expedition, has issued the following summary.

"Ur, which was a great Sumerian city ages before the arrival of the Chaldees, had the reputation of being one of the most ancient centers of civilization in Babylonia and though we have not yet tapped its lowest strata and the earliest objects dated by inscriptions goes back no further than 2300 B. C., yet pointed pots, bowls and flint implements found in the soil and even some of the walls already bared must be very many hundreds of years older than that."

A Continuous History

The final destruction of the city, or at any rate of its temples took place in the Persian period when Zoroastrianism had attained sufficient power to sweep away the monuments of the older faith and from the Third Dynasty of Ur (about 2300 B. C.) to this time, perhaps about 400 B. C., the history of the buildings excavated by us is virtually continuous.

VACCINATION WITHOUT SCAR IS BEING USED

NEW YORK, June 7.—A new method of vaccination against smallpox, which leaves no scar and minimizes the danger of reactions and secondary infection, is being used successfully in several hospitals here.

The old method of vaccination by scarification was attended by danger to a child in conveying the virus by hand from the scar to the eye. Also there has always been a strong objection to being scarred for life.

The vaccine under the new method is diluted, drawn into a syringe and injected under the skin of the left arm. The results are said to have been thoroughly satisfactory. The reaction by this method is confined to the under surface of the skin, showing a slight redness which disappears after three weeks, leaving the skin unmarked.

BARBER CUT HAIR BY APPOINTMENT

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 7.—Local barbers who have been growing more independent and forward-looking all the time have posted notice informing their customers that hereafter hair cutting will be done only by appointment.

It is still possible to sneak in and get a shave without calling up beforehand. As a matter of barber shop etiquette, the proper way to ask for a haircutting date with the barber is this form:

"Antonio, I drop a dime."

Barbers are divided into two groups, those staying in general stores and those running a high-class

NO RESERVE TO WHALE HUNTING

Safe Whales Hunt by North Pacific Fleet

OMAHA, Wash., June 7.—Hunting whales with depth bombs, which are repositioning the industry of capturing these sea giants, is the result of an invention by a Seattle man, Thomas Hall, fireworks and torpedo manufacturer.

"Why not depth bombs for whales?" asked Hall. "Everyone knows how successful the allies were in warfare against underwater boats. It is simply an adaptation of the same idea."

Off the shore of Northwest Washington whale hunters are using two methods to catch the Leviathans, one, the most primitive, by the Makah Indians, shooting from canoes; the other, an up-to-the-minute, modern manner, simply dropping death-dealing bombs into the water while a huge whale is known to have dived.

The bomb fits into the mouth of the harpoon gun. When the harpoon is fired it carries the bomb along with it. Automatically a time fuse is started. With the harpoon fastened to the flesh of the whale and with the depth bomb attached, the fuse gradually burns, the powder ignites, an explosion occurs, and the whale is killed and comes to the surface.

These sure death bombs are 14 inches long, and cylindrical, with a diameter of about two inches. The force of the submarine explosion is sufficient to kill the whale by compression.

The invention will take the romance out of the hunt for whales, but there is nothing like playing safe for thousands of men who have died at sea might have been saved by means of the whale bombs.

Many whaling vessels are now out and the regular whaling season is starting. These vessels all carry the deep sea bombs.

Whalers the world over have heard of the new killer and are watching for news of the North Pacific's experience with the explosive.

AMERICA'S ONLY DIAMOND MINE

6,000 Stones Yielded by the Arkansas Field

CHICAGO, June 7.—Arkansas' diamond mine, the only one ever discovered in North America, has yielded nearly 6000 diamonds since the "pipes" were first located in 1906, according to report of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Most of the diamonds have been small, but a number of large stones have been found. The largest weighed 21.14 carats and the second 17.36 carats. Dr. George E. Kunz, diamond expert, says the Arkansas diamonds are as fine as any found anywhere, and of one lot which he examined said: "These are absolutely perfect and are equal to the finest stones ever taken from the Jagersfontein mine in South Africa, or that were ever found in India."

A few of the Arkansas stones have sold for as high as $800 a carat, the report says. The output of the South African mines is about one carat to two tons of ore and of the Arkansas mine about one carat to eight tons of ore.

Discovery of the Arkansas mine created excitement, but its output so far has cut little figure in the world's supply. Ninety-five per cent of all the world's diamonds come from South Africa. The price of the very best African diamonds in 1890 was $150 per carat, and this year is $750 per carat.

Action? Atlanta Leader, Busy as She Is, Will Get It for You if You Want It

ATLANTA, Ga., June 7.—Whatever you want anything done, go to a busy person and you'll be sure of quick action.

In Atlanta, therefore, you go to Mrs. R. M. Boykin for any civic or other local reform—and you may depend on her to find time to get things done.

Mrs. Boykin is president of the Atlanta Woman's Club and is largely responsible for the patriotic club's work which is a challenge to women's clubs throughout the country. But that's only one of her many accomplishments.

"We should have better motion pictures for our children," wailed the mother of Atlanta. "Some of the things they see are entirely ignorant for the impious-minded mind of the school child."

Children's Magazine

"Then we'll get better pictures and support them," replied Mrs. Boykin.

So she organized a Better Pictures Committee composed of parents, teachers and welfare workers and arranged for them to review all films sent to Atlanta, to select pictures best suited for the children's matinees which she arranged to have held each Saturday morning in the local houses.

Then the children themselves were permitted to help in the rest of the program and opportunities to act in the matinees. Educational films which would correlate with school work were obtained and the music for the program explained the week before in school.

The result is a children's weekly matinee that is one of Atlanta's greatest骄傲s, to which any mother may send her child each week and know nothing obnoxious will be shown.

But the work did not stop here.

For Grownups Too

"We found that growths needed better films as well as the children," Mrs. Boykin explained. "So each week we publish our recommendations of all the pictures that are to be shown the following week. We have

YOUTHFUL BEBE RUNS ROMANCE

ATLANTA, Ga., June 7.—Judge Irving Nagel has announced from the bench that he would decide lawsuits of the average kind, but when it came to making up a woman's mind for her, he was no King Solomon.

Some weeks ago his niece driver and a pretty 16-year-old school girl ran away to Tuskegee and were married. Six days later the young bridegroom was arrested on charges of false swearing preferred by the father of the bride. The bride was taken to St. Louis and placed in a convent.

Later the husband got his release from jail and went to the courthouse for a second time. This time he went to the clerk's office and aware a complaint against his father-in-law, asking that he be compelled to bring the bride into court and tell why she should not be with her husband.

This morning father, bride and bridegroom faced each other, and a large group of relatives from each in Judge Boyd's courtroom.

Then it was up to the court to announce that he would let the young woman decide for herself, and that she and her husband could go off and talk it over.

They talked for twenty minutes. The bride came in and said

"I want to go home to mother." Another romance ended.

"I see signs that the American man, however, is growing more beautiful and will excel the ancient types now developing in the United States."

This is the opinion of Dr. Brettmon, the noted Parisian beauty expert.

Dr. Brettmon in an interview with the United Press declared that the malaise of European types—the "melting pot," the climate, the American mentality and outlook on life, the practical domination by women in America and prohibition—are combining to produce a distinct composite national type of super-beauty, more lovely than any the world has yet seen.

The process of definite formation of type will take from fifty to one hundred years more, assuming immigration is restricted, but the main lines of the type are already visible.

"In this developmental period, prohibition will have a large part," said Brettmon. "No woman can be beautiful without a clear complexion and won't have clear face and drink alcohol as women in Europe do."

The American Type

In Brettmon's opinion, the chief characteristics of the American type are:

A pretty nose inclined to turn up at the tip—a pig nose. Brettmon declared the nose is one of the most important features of a beautiful face.

Fine complexion, due to good general health and outdoor eyes.

Dark hair and attractive eyes. Good figure with narrow boyish hips, which is one of the individual characteristics of the American type.

Fascination of personality due to exuberance and self-reliance and good education.

"The American beauty will be first in history to have a pig nose. Hitherto the accepted standards of beauty have demanded a long straight nose. But the American girls have proved that woman can be really beautiful with a nose that is not long and straight."

"One reason the future American beauty will be the most lovely in the world is because the principles of bodily hygiene are most extensively and better taught in America and more widely observed—for instance the care of the teeth which is yet not widely understood or practiced in Europe except among the upper classes."

"Then too there are more advantages for practicing hygiene in Amer-

VARIETY ADMINISTRATION

Every man sees his own best interests. All of us, if decently bred, believe that service to mankind is our best interest. But the business of bread and butter and the business of personal reputation too often binds us. We return to individualism, to a struggle for personal adventure, sometimes at the expense of the big thing called mankind.

Certainly the business of education is a service to mankind. Those individuals who constitute the teaching group of such an institution as the University of Texas, are unanimous in this concept. But they can not be blamed if they relapse now and then into a belief that leisure and the ability of leisure for thinking and acting and personal culture is really more important than the daily routine grind of teaching.

Such a group of men, however, often need a realist as a directing leader. By a realist is meant a man most concerned in the daily work of the teaching machine. Such a realist as president of the university would be most of all concerned in the quality and quantity done of each professor unit. Such a realist would be constantly busy with the cost of teaching and the quality of the teaching product. If he found that Professor A could teach twenty-five hours a week satisfactorily without breaking down, and that Professor B, who had written a book, could teach only ten hours without breaking down, he might see fit to give Professor A a larger salary than Professor B, although Professor B, might have had the leisure on salary for book writing and advancement of personal reputation.

Salaries at the University have been much too low. The question is whether there have not been too many salaries. It is possible that an administrative president might after a couple of weeks survey, decide that a policy of fewer professors and more work per professor would result in higher salaries per professor and an increase efficiency per professor and net saving on the University pay roll.

"Emil," shouted the grocer again to his boy. "Gif dis man two dozen eggs at once. You hav sheated him mit bad eggs. Don't you do any more times or I discharge you."

"But, sir," said the man with the white vest, anxiously. "You gave me too many eggs for my money, and I want to return a dozen. I am too honest to—"

"Emil," said the grocer, "giff dis man tree dozen good fresh eggs at once and let him go. Va makes bad eggs good ven ve sella dem. Hurry up quick and put in drei or four extra ones."

DAVEY ON THE JOB

Martin L. Davey is an Ohio congressman. He is passing sleepless nights. He is fearful of the future. He has been digging into statistical history. He has discovered that 147 years ago this republic was organized with 3,000,000 people. He has been reading the census reports of 1920 and estimates made of the addition to the population of the nation since 1920.

He has made the alarming discovery that we have doubled the original number 36 times which makes the population now 108,000,000. Davey is a man of vision. He has the gift of prophecy. It is possible for him to peer into the future. He is a mathematician. None of the lightning calculators have anything on Davey. He tells what is going to happen.

One hundred and forty-seven years hence there will be 4,000,000,000 people in the United States. There is no getting away from his logic or his figures. If, in the next hundred and forty-seven years, the population is doubled 36 times then the population will be 3,888,000,000.

Davey is alarmed. He says there should be a population bureau established in the city of Washington. This bureau would publish for the information of the public the number of births and deaths in the United States. In the advent the births exceeded the deaths Davey would have the bureau press advise the people to raise small families.

On the other hand if the deaths should exceed the births their advice would be that larger families be raised for Davey insists that it is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

Davey is a public benefactor. His face should be heralded in the public picture galleries. His fame should be heralded while he lives and enlabeled and monumentalized after death has taken him away.

If it were not for the Daveys civilizations would wither and then disappear, the human family would become as numerous as fleas in the sand or gnats on the Galveston shore in the good old summer time.

Ohio discovered him but all America claims Davey as its own.

Gasoline is not cheap in the near east, speaking of New York and Pennsylvania points. Mid-Continent refiners have a selling price of 13 1/2 cents a gallon which represents a gain of 2 1/2 cents over early May prices. There are a half million auto tourists on the road and gas consumption is ever on the increase. This is the good old summertime.

MAN WITH THE VEST

Former United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois has made the important announcement that he will not be a candidate to return to the upper house of the American congress. While he was a member of the senate J. Hamilton displayed the most intellectual vests ever worn by an American statesman. They won for him a place in the picture gallery of the world and front page position in every American newspaper. He divided honors with the two scholars and the royal Bengal tigers of the senate—Lodge of Massachusetts, Williams of Mississippi and Reed of Missouri. It was a case of the vest making the man, although Lewis has some development above the chin.

VICE They've been holding the international Esperanto convention in Germany. An excellent movement, this campaign for a common world-wide language. If all nations spoke the same tongue, there'd be less misunderstanding.

But Esperanto, eventually inevitable, will be slow in coming. "Patriotic" provincials fight to save the native language. Is it possible that even patriotism at times is a vice? Ultimately Esperanto will be reluctantly taking the place of spoken words.

WHISKEY Only 15 million gallons of whiskey will be bonded warehouses. Not much more than a quart for every American. If liquor comes back, the country would have to hang out the "O. K. sign" quickly, and start selling whisky again. For the benefit of those who would rather know the percentage of whisky than gold dust! Whiskey has over 90 millions of barrels.

A MATTER OF MONEY

New York lawmakers enacted a bill providing for electrification of all railroads in New York City. Representatives of the railroads appeared before Governor Smith and urged him to veto the bill. They asserted that electrification would cost $53,000,000 and they did not know where they could get the money. Electrification is coming some day the country over. Why shouldn't it start be made in New York City?

LETTER FROM SAM ATHERTON TO BRATRICK GRIMSHAW

DEAR BEE:

MERELY HABIT

By BERTON BRALEY

I am dictating this letter to one of my new friends who is staying with me for an hour or two while Sally has been persuaded to leave me for a little while to get some needed exercise and air.

Bee, won't your persuade Sally to let me go to the county hospital? It really is the only sensible thing to do, but when I suggested it to Sally she almost fainted.

What is the use of her sacrificing her youth and good looks and health to such a log as I am? Why, if a man becomes, through his own fault, unable to take care of even himself, it should be cause for divorce.

But here I am and she insists that it is up to her to take care of me just as it would be up to me to take care of her under similar circumstances.

Bee, Sally is so devoted to me and makes me so comfortable at any expense to herself financially or personally that it seems to me if I knew how to do it without hurting her more than by living, I would contrive to rid this world of one more man.

Of course you know how this awful thing happened to me. It was all my own fault. I cannot help thinking, however, of the great number of my friends who have always drunk more beer than I and yet they have escaped the punishment I am now undergoing.

The worst part of it is that I am ruining Sally's life. She always objected to me drinking, but I thought she was narrow minded and Puritanical in her ideas. It seemed to me that it wouldn't be quite manly to give in to her when she begged me not to take one glass of liquor.

How a thing like that could get into a man's head while his heart still clamed that nothing in the world was worth anything beside her life.

Sally has had to give up her position with the publishing firm as secretary to the manager, but he has been very wonderful to her.

This company has already closed negotiations for a pipe line loading tank station on the San Antonio and Aransas Pass tracks four miles outside this city.

Pipe and other materials have already been loaded for shipment and the company plans to have the first run of oil from the field within the next few weeks. The loading tanks will accommodate sixty cars per day.

Although she does not tell me, I know she must be working from 12 to 15 hours a day and I am sure she cannot keep it up. And it is all for Bee—all for me.

Try and persuade her to let me go to the county hospital. She could come to see me often and I know I would be well taken care of—better than I deserve.

I am getting into very good condition with the exception of my eyes and the doctor holds out great hopes for me about their improvement.

Oh, Bee, if ever I get where I can work again, I will try and repay this little wife of mine for all that she is doing for me now.

I never knew how much I loved her until I knew how self-sacrificing she could be. If you care for her at all, as I think you do, please get her friends together and ask them to write separate letters to her insisting that she permit me to go to a charitable institution until at least I am better or worse.

It is a queer thing about death, Bee. So often comes when we call and yet most of us are not ready when he makes his demand upon us. Just now I would gladly close my eyes and never wake up again.

The erring husband of the most wonderful woman in all the world!

SAM.

UNIT TAX PLAN IS EXPLAINED

SOLONS EXPECT FOURTH SESSION

60% of Property Owners to Benefit by Saving, He Says

AUSTIN, Texas, June 6.—Will the governor call a fourth extra session? This is the question many legislators are asking themselves as the hot summer days approach. Some are inclined to believe he will and are preparing to stay at all summer. Quite a number have leased cottages at Deep Eddy, a summer resort on the Colorado river, in expectancy of another session. Jokingly some members say they are going to send for their over coats.

A fourth called session is almost a certainty if the appropriations are to be reduced enough to come within the available revenues of the state. If the legislators pass all the appropriations now before them without raising any additional revenues there will be a deficit in the state treasury of approximately $2,000,000 at the end of the next biennium.

No Danger of Split on World Court, Says Watson

WASHINGTON, June 6.—A second murder judgment has been returned against Mrs. Mary Creighton, pretty young Newark matron who is already visiting trial on a charge of poisoning her brother, Charles Avery.

The new indictment alleges that she also poisoned her mother-in-law. Chemists are now analyzing the stomach of her father-in-law, who died 2 years ago.

Mrs. Creighton, who became a mother for the second time just after her arrest, is scheduled to go to trial June 18 on the charge of killing her brother. Her husband, John, is charged with the same offense and will go to trial with her.

Mrs. Creighton is accused of having slowly fed arsenic to her brother in pudding so that she and her husband could collect his insurance. Attention of the authorities was called to her by anonymous letters.

H. B. Myers, employed at the Home Laundry, sustained a broken rib and minor cuts and bruises when struck by an automobile at the 700 block on Procter street about 6:10 a. m. today. Myers was rushed to Mary Gates hospital in a Grammerambulance, where it was found his injuries were not serious, and he went home, hospital authorities report.

CIVITAN CLUB TO ASK TRAFFIC OFFICERS

Action to get a traffic officer stationed at the corner of Procter street and Austin avenue was launched by the Civitan club today.

Pointing out that the traffic conditions at the corner are particularly acute on Saturday and not day after noon, the Civitans appointed Dr. S. E. White to head a committee to appear before the city commission and Chief of Police W. W. Covington relative to stationing the traffic officer.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. A. J. Yeast of 2609 Procter street was removed to Mary Gates hospital yesterday to undergo an operation, but the operation was delayed pending the arrival of her brother, James W. Sutton, of San Antonio. Sutton arrived today and the operation will be performed tomorrow.

MAGNOLIA DOCK FOR 'Q' VESSEL

Site Is Chosen for Sabine Detention Barracks

The Sabine district is to have a detention barracks.

This was assured Tuesday when Surgeon T. J. Liddell of the local United States Relief Service station completed his checkup of the S. S. Lake Elkhorn, at Orange.

Captain H. A. Merrill, manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, of Galveston is expected to arrive Wednesday or Thursday to make the transfer. The vessel will then be towed to the Sabine quarantine station and docked at Old Magnolia Dock No. 1.

Only Temporary

The vessel is complete in every way, Dr. Liddell said, and will accommodate from 75 to 80 men.

This ship will serve only as a temporary detention barracks, Dr. Liddell explained. This service was obtained when Surgeon General Cummings visited the Sabine the latter part of April, when recommendations for a $500,000 structure was made to Washington.

At that time Dr. Liddell made the request to Surgeon General Cummings for some relief in the way of detention service, and after his return to Washington Surgeon Cummings made the present arrangement.

Detail Exposed Cases

Sailors of ships coming into Sabine district ports, who went ashore at fewer infected ports, will be detained here during the incubation period, permitting the ship to enter the port without detaining it in any way. Upon leaving here for its destination the sailors will be permitted to board the vessel and continue the journey.

DEFECTIVE BABIES SCORE 100

Others in Show Found to Have Unexpected Ailments

Examined in Red Cross health conferences a year ago and found defective, numbers of Port Arthur babies now score 100 per cent as a result of defects corrected, while other babies examined in the conferences at the Red Cross last yesterday and today are found to have ailments unsuspected by parents.

More Than 120 to be Examined

These Red Cross health officials summarized the results of the health conferences conducted in Port Arthur today. Before the 1923 conference and clinic closed at 4 o'clock this afternoon, more than 150 babies will be examined, they estimated at noon.

Ranging in ages from six months to 7 years, 63 infants were examined by physicians, specialists and dentists during the hours of the conferences and clinics Thursday, Red Cross officials said. Appointments are made for the 120 babies estimated as the capacity the clinic could handle, but others are being taken into the conference, the officials said.

Teeth Improving

Marked improvement in the conditions of the babies' teeth examined in the clinic this year is reported by dentists conducting this phase of the examinations. Among the most common defects found are underweight enlarged tonsils and adenoids, while several cases of rickets, a bone disease, have been discovered among the babies examined, specialists and physicians said.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 3.—Again today the volume of dealings on the stock market fell off to a new low in comparison with pace set in most of the year.

Transactions in the main body of stocks were restricted to a narrow area.

Heavyness in California Petroleum and other industrial groups appeared to receive some support, but no change from the view that stocks of this class were entitled to a further rally in view of the many favorable features in the economic situation.

Reasoning was induced by the letter of an analyst who declared there was over production of automobiles from the fact that gas consumption has not expanded in proportion to motor output.

Wall Street Journal Financial Review

Having given little expression of opinion regarding the new German operations note in the previous issue, stocks on the exchange today were equally non-committal in their dealing, regarding the likelihood that France would reject Bar-berd.

Wall Street felt that the terms negotiated, at least, opened the way for renewed discussion and the active issue was shown a disposition to await further developments in the direction before passing judgment.

Some recent developments took place among the industrial leaders because of the falling off in the reserve ratio of the Federal Banking system, but prices in the market showed no important changes from the previous close.

LAW TAKES UP SHELBY ABODE FOR BIG FIGHT

Them Rounders' Bring Peace to Wooly Town

By HENRY L. FARRELL
SHELBY, Mont., June 8.—When number one, the big train from the east, pulled in at sundown last evening and dumped a shipment of tenderfeet on the platform of the new yellow pine railroad station, the bad news was ready.

"Better go see 'em ride bad horses tonight, strangers," came from a straw chewing cowboy idly holding up the building.

"The old town's done closed up."

An equally idle group of dusty drags and a few Blackfeet squatted nearby echoed the sentiments.

The news of the day was true: Shelby a few days ago the wildest open town of the great northwest has taken its count from the law. If the long acres of the station loungers were not sufficient proof the strains of a hymn floating up from a dirty, narrow street where a group of camp singers gathered was sufficient to show that some one had taken the wild and wooly out of the neighborhood.

From the third story of a brand new building a few rods down the main street came the moan of a saxophone a little later in the evening and the snap of a piano and the ping-pong of a guitar floated from the "King Tut" dance hall, the only one doing business. A few dusty punchers with tall-heeled boots had their idea of a dance with some rather nice looking ladies half girls, but that was all. And everything closed up at 9 o'clock.

A week ago they didn't get going good until after midnight and the law it seems stepped in and stopped the excitement just as it was getting underway.

"Them rounders did it," a native bartender, dispensing near beer in a mirrored cafe, moaned. "A lot of gamblers came in and started the shoot going and the cards shuffling, and they didn't want to let the boys go to bed. Now, we all got to go to bed."

But if it lacks the liquid veneer and high polish of frontier days, Shelby is a revelation of something new, in these days when something new, to him there isn't any such thing.

On both sides of the main street of the town extend buildings that have been erected in a brief a time as ten days. Concessions, boarding houses, rooms to rent, in endless succession, are packing in every available inch of Shelby until it has all the appearance of a Coney Island without the ocean. At a corner is the new three-story, seven-story hotel, open only six days. Several others are ready to receive the eight fans as fast as they come.

Traffic during the most of the day, halted or moves in slow jerks as a constant stream of houses are brought in on wheels from the surrounding country, and set up in the first instant spot.

High values prevail. One house was offered for rent for $2,000 for the week of the fight.

The arena where Dempsey and Gibbons will meet on July 4 is more than half completed and has been approved by the state fire marshal. Tickets are going rapidly.

Gibbons' sentiment runs high out here. Tommy and his family (Mrs. Gibbons and three small boys) established themselves in one of the best houses in the town. The challenger's training camp is pitching within walking distance.

Tommy is doing nothing but road work at present; on his first day he went 16 miles on the road and after dinner Mrs. Gibbons and her husband hit up a fast pace for three more miles across country.

Employment for a 20-year-old boy, the only support for his mother and father, who have been unable to work for the past two years as a result of an injury to his right hand, is being sought by Volunteers of America in Port Arthur.

"The boy has a wheel, and it is absolutely necessary for him to find something to do. Even $5 a week would help greatly," the boy's mother stated in a letter written officials in the Volunteers of America, Port Arthur Mission, between Fourth and Procter streets, on Port Worth avenue.

At the morning worship period the theme will be "On the Mountain of Transfiguration with Christ." At the evening service the sermon will be on "Gambling." The choir will furnish special music at both services.

The Christian Endeavor Societies, Senior and Intermediate have programs at 6:45. The Senior Society program will be joined in leadership.

On Friday night the Senior Endeavor will give its play, "Let's All Get Married," in the church. This promises to be one of the most interesting affairs that the C. E. has ever given.

The following note from Rev. L. B. Frank, until recently rector of the Episcopal church in our city, should be carefully perused by all Port Arthur people. "It is a joy to be once more where Sunday means something to the people. Everything is as calm and peaceful here on Sunday as one can well imagine.

Do your best to give Port Arthur more time for God in His church on Sunday." That is the greatest need of Port Arthur—more time given to God.

O. HENRY

Newly discovered writings of O. Henry, while a member of the Houston Post and associate of former Governor Hobby. Copyrighted by The Houston Post and published through arrangement with the Wheeler syndicate.

An Easy Winner

After the performance of "In Old Kentucky" Friday night three cronies went into a saloon with the inflexible determination of taking a drink. After doing so, they added an amendment in the shape of another and then tucked on an emergency clause.

When they got to feeling a little mellow they sat down at a table and commenced lying. Not maliciously, but just ordinary, friendly lying about things they had seen and done. They all tried their hand at relating experiences, and as the sky was clear, there was no unattractive performance of the Amazons tragedy.

Finally the judge suggested the concoction of a fine large julep—a julep that would render the use of curling irons unnecessary and the one who told the most improbable story should be allowed to produce the vacuum in the straws.

The major and the judge led off with a couple of marvelous narratives which were about a tie. The colonel moistened his lips as his eye rested on the big glass filled with diamonds and amber, and crowned with fragrant mint. He commenced his story:

"The incident I am about to relate is not only wonderful, but true. It happened in this very town on Saturday afternoon. I got up rather early Saturday morning as I had a big day's work ahead of me. My wife fixed me up a rattling good cocktail when I got up and I was feeling pretty good.

When I came down stairs she handed me a five dollar bill that had dropped out of my pocket and said, 'John, you must really get a better looking housemaid. Jane is so lonely, and you never did admire her. See if you can find a real nice looking one. And John, dear, you are working too hard. You must really have some recreation. Why not take Miss Muggins, your typewriter, out for a drive this afternoon. Then you might stop at the milliner's and tell them not to send up that hat I ordered, and—'

"Hold on, Colonel," said the judge. "You just drink that mint julep right now. You needn't go any further with your story."

YOU AND I

In the past year our business men have sold Germany an average of about 25 million dollars worth of goods (exports) a month.

This was more than twice as much as we imported from Germany. How is the difference being paid? Certainly not in gold. In this and many other ways the international bankers reveal their belief that Germany's credit is good. So maybe we shouldn't get too discouraged about the European outlook?

FRANCE

France is another country that for months has been buying about twice as much from us as she has sold us. We've been exporting to France around 25 million dollars worth of goods a month, and importing less than 15 millions a month from her.

In the 1921 depression, a big business operator said: "The banks are so deep in the hole with me that they don't dare let me bust."

France, however, apparently is doing better than Germany at "paying the difference" in gold, securities, concessions, etc.

HEADACHE

Germany rounds up enough adding machines to make up its yearly report of government revenue and spending.

It spent more than it took in. Its total revenue from taxation lacked $91 billion marks of being enough to pay the one item of deficit on post office and government railway expenditure. According to which, they are not in any danger of taxing themselves into the poorhouse.

COAL

Enough coal still underground in our country to last us 6032 years if the rate we're using it up now, says R. Z. Virgin, editor of the Coal Trade Review. That's not counting Alaska, which has enough unmined coal to supply the states west of the Rockies for 1000 years.

In the face of this enormous supply, we have periodical coal shortages, a ridiculous paradox that can be easily eliminated if householders this summer will buy their coal supply for next winter. Summer prices may have you considerable money, far more than compound interest on the investment.

SPORT

A Yankee sailor, posted recently at Odessa, Russia, went to a bank and cashed in $10,000 RR for a freighter of rubles. Now the bank discovered that the bill is phony. It has "counterfeited" printed in a corner, and a copy of sample circulated 40 years ago in China to introduce paper money there.

It's a rare day when anything that hasn't been counterfeited passes the rubber test.

PETROLEUM

Governor Neff vetoed a concurrent resolution by Representative J. E. Winfree of Harris county creating a joint committee to investigate an alleged oil trust in Texas, giving his reasons as follows:

"House concurrent resolution providing for a committee of five members of the house and three of the senate to investigate ownership of stock and general business transactions of oil companies doing business in Texas vetoed for the following reasons: There is no limit placed on the committee as to the extent of its operations either geographically or financially. The courts of this state have recently held that a committee, organized as provided in this resolution, has no authority to compel the attendance of a witness or to punish in any way a witness for declining to testify before said committee. In view of this court decision the work outlined for this committee to perform would necessarily be ineffective. This bill, therefore, is disapproved and vetoed."

This reminds The News that such an investigation has already been made and all the facts, or alleged facts, are available to those who desire to study them. Under senate resolution States senate made 4, ad. E. wofitfactsonN eta sh etao shrdlu number 295 the committee on manufactures of the United States senate made a thorough investigation of the entire subject of production, prices and control of gasoline and other petroleum products and the findings are published in U. S. Senate report 1263.

Perhaps the governor is of the opinion that it is not possible for a committee of the Texas legislature to make a more thorough investigation of the subject than is embodied in this congressional report as it covers the following subject:

1. The stock of crude oil, gasoline and other petroleum products at refineries or elsewhere in the United States at the end of each month for the past three years and the holders or owners thereof.

2. The price of crude oil, gasoline and other petroleum products during the several months in said years and their relations to each.

3. Whether or not the recent increases or other changes in the prices of gasoline or other petroleum products have been made generally or uniformly by all companies, and whether there have been marked local differences in the price changes made.

4. The profits of companies refining and marketing petroleum in the United States for the years 1920, 1921 and 1922.

5. Whether there is any natural reason for the changes of prices of crude oil, gasoline and of other petroleum products, or whether there has been any understanding or agreement between various oil companies to raise or depress prices, or whether there are conditions of ownership, or control or of refining and marketing facilities in the industry in any part of the country or branch of the business which prevent effective competition.

6. All such facts as bear upon the recent changes in prices of crude oil, gasoline or other petroleum products, or upon any other of the foregoing matters.

The News has been reminded by a distinguished democrat and official that this report is available and is very thorough, consisting of 70 printed pages and it is not possible for a committee of the legislature to possess more power and authority to secure more facts and general information on the subject than is presented in the report.

Regardless of all the patter indulged in there will be no investigation of the petroleum companies by Texas lawmakers this year or next. Lawmakers or laymen who are dissatisfied are referred to U. S. Senate Report 1263. It is rather heavy for summer reading but there are men who just eat that variety of literary papabulum.

Really the Filipinos are entitled to independence and self government. They have become thoroughly civilized according to Anglo-Saxon standards. All the farm tenants and laborers in the important province of Cavite are on strike against what they call "usury and unfair division of crops practiced by the landlords." They have walking delegates, they have talking delegates, they parade and carry banners and they demand co-operation and co-ordination. General Wood should be called home.

WHY THE THRUST?

And now comes the Chicago Tribune with this comment: "We do not know of any Georgia law making the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments enforceable in the state courts."

Why this thrust at Georgia? Neither the fourteenth or fifteenth amendment is a rum-pulverizer. And then the editor of the Tribune asks this one:

"If Georgia does not have to have laws enforcing the fifteenth amendment, why does New York have to have a law enforcing the eighteenth?" The Georgia answer is:

"This is a white man's government, made by white men for white men."

The brother in black away down in Georgia accepts the situation and does the best he can. Just as the editor of the Tribune would do if were a brother in black away down in Georgia.

A RED RECORD

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas says that within ten years more people have been murdered in the United States than the total number of United States soldiers killed in the World War in France; that few of the murderers are convicted and few are even tried.

Credit a thousand last year to Texas. Murder appears to be more of a misdemeanor in the United States than a capital crime. "Thou shalt not kill" is an obsolete commandment. According to a famous Texas judge long since gathered to his Father it applies only to "po' white trash, Mexicans and negroes."

LOGIC OF HISTORY

A trade exchange says food is 42 percent higher than in 1913; clothing 74 per cent higher; housing 62 per cent; fuel and lighting 86 per cent; furniture 117 per cent; miscellaneous 100 per cent. The year 1913 disappeared 10 years ago. Then came the world war. An old civilization was shot to pieces. A new civilization is in the making and the world will never be the same again. Don't worry. The new civilization will be a better one than the old civilization. This is both the logic and the truth of history.

WHY NOT COTTON GROWERS

There are 15,000 raisin growers in California. They have organized and financed the greatest co-operative marketing association in the world. Now if the 2,000,000 southern cotton growers would do this the cotton growers of the south would fix the price of cotton and their selling agency would market the entire crop. It is coming some day.

THAT KID FROM WISCONSIN AGAIN

At least accounts government troops were attacking the outlaws, stronghold, just the course calculated to hasten the captives' murder.

Foreign governments continue to exert strong pressure on the Peking administration and to threaten action of their own, but this again undoubtedly would add to the prisoners' peril, not to mention the fact that a foreign invasion, or anything else embarrassing to the government at Peking, is just what the bandits want.

Wife and Days

The treasury department, according to Washington correspondents, has found a way out of the difficulty caused by the Supreme court's decision that foreign ships must be kept from entering American ports—even locked up, for use only on board on the high seas. The idea is to let them list it as "medical stores," allowed under the law.

Washington dispatches also mention Anti-Saloon League trouble over debts incurred in an unsuccessful effort to raise $25,000,000 to enforce prohibition. The argument over the question—who's to pay them?

The Chicago Daily News, after a country-wide investigation, asserts liquor has become the country's biggest single business.

Queer Feelings

"I was very irregular," writes Mrs. Cora Rose, of Pikeville, Ky., "and suffered a great deal. I suffered mostly with my back and a weakness in my limbs. I would have dreadful headaches. I had hot flashes and very queer feelings, and oh, how my head hurt! I read a whale of a tale!

Port Arthur's Baseball League Race Is Becoming a Tight Issue

Port Wins Bitter Clash From Craig Contingent 2 To 1

Amateur Railers and Airtight Playing Features Gain Hot Baseball Between Battlers for Second Position in City League

THE BILL ARCHER

THE Texas Company played airtight ball yesterday, and while Kring was dropping the Citizens with four late hits, Skipper Nookie Priester's strategies took advantage of a wild pitch and hits and pushed a couple of runs across the plate for a 2-1 victory.

The win left the position of second division team undisputed in the hands of the Texas Stars, while the City took a plunge downward to the .500 percent age row.

Kring was in form all the way. The Citizens found him for a lone hit in the first frame, and pushed a run across the fourth plate on a passed ball. But Kring tightened down the screws after that and it was in the first of the fifth before Skipper Craig's players were able to connect with the Texas buster's effecting for additional safeties.

Bennett was coaxed from the rubber after two and two-thirds innings had been chalked against him, and after the Texas Company club had passed his off for four counting hits, Leach was sent in to relieve him and managed to weave out of sensational holes in exciting manner which held the crowd on edge until the game ended in the sixth.

The final period was the most exciting of the game. The Citizens started a rally after two were out, and with one on, Ray Jordan was placed at bat as pinch hitter, relieving Perkins. But Jordan ended the game with a strikeout.

The Citizens made their score early, having been clutched to their credit in the first stanza. Guy Hooker singled and Petty attempted sacrifice, but went safe at first on an error. Morgan flew out to Bell, took went safe on a fielder's choice. Hooker going to third. A passed ball sent Hooker across the plate for the only tally the City crew drew down and Perkins retired the side with a fly to Priester.

Bennett let the Texcos down with a gopher in the last of the first, and another half frame passed before counting began again.

Burch then opened the fireworks for the Stars with a single, and Priester sacrificed him to second. Bennett to Hooker. Eshhart cracked out a single, and went to second on the throw-in. Farnsworth, Coffey sacrificed, Hooker to Perkins. Eshhart taking third. Bell lined out to Perkins.

In the last of the third frame the winning run was pushed across the plate and it was a full game.

Kring opened the final half of it with a single, Rodriguez sacrificed, Bennett to Perkins. Kring taking second, Mazozol sacrificed, Petty to Perkins. Kring taking second, Mazozol sacrificed, Petty to Perkins. Kring taking third. Romero was batting when Kring strode home on a wild pitch, and the batter added to the mites with a pass to first issued him. Burch singled, and the Citizens' skipper called Benner from the rubber. Leach going in to relieve him. The side was retired without further drama when Priester went out at first, Petty to Perkins.

The Citizens managed to get two on in the first of the fifth, but they were left standing on base when the next three batters were retired without incident.

Leach pitched airtight baseball in a tight pinch in the last of the stumps when he retired the Stars without a tally after three had gone on base. Rodriguez led off with an out at the initial sack. Leach to Perkins. Mazozol singled and Romero sent him to third on a double. Burch was hit with a pitched ball and filled the bases. But Priester drew a strike out and Eshhart popped out to Hooker.

The Citizens were determined in their last chance of the game but it all came of no avail. Petty singled and stole second while Morgan was swiffling the breezes. Cook sacrificed Petty to third, Mazozol to Coffey, Jordan went in as pinch hitter for Perkins, and Kring showed a rare urge over the plate, drawing the batter's stick for three whiffs.

It was one of the most heatedly contested games the local tandem has witnessed this season, and was filled at varied intervals with exciting moments that made it an interesting contest.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

One morning Mr. Tatters looked out of his window.

One morning Mister Tatters, the little Raggy Man, looked out of his window in Raggy Land (which was under the ground, you know) and saw something something that hadn't been there the day or two before.

He looked again. Indeed, to make quite sure, he looked three times.

And finally he took off his nightie and put on his reddy overalls and ran out of his little house and went over to the something and looked right at it.

"Yes, sir!" As sure as you're born, that's it," he nodded talking to no one at all. For it was early and none of the little Haggies or either of the Twins were awake yet.

"Yes, sir! That's it!" he repeated. "I've been afraid all along it would come sometime, and here it is at last."

Then he blew his whistle.

At that every one of the Russies jumped out of bed and into their coats and flew out to see what Mr. Tatters wanted. And you may be sure Nance and Nick were there last.

Then such busting as there. They worked all day and nearly the night.

But Farmer Brown's wheat field was safe.

Thanks to the Twins a Raggy.

MAN PARDONED AFTER 2,000 SIGN PETITION

HOUSTON, Tex., June 9.—The yacht Mary Ann, belonging to J.

A. Steadman of Beaumont, steamed into port yesterday and members of the crew report sighting great schools of kingfish and mackerel in the gulf. This is unusual as these fish are not usually seen except at considerable depth, which is probably only in very calm weather. The Mary Ann will be in these waters some days while the party aboard enjoy the fishing.

Barton had just been discharged from the veterans' hospital at Logan, is well on the road to recovery when the governor paid him a visit. The governor said to prison would probably cause death from a relapse.

Barton will start a vocational training course Sept. 1. Meanwhile, drawing compensation from the government.

FLAPPER KILLER HUNT FRUITLESS

50 Suspects Fail to Show Mona Lisa Smile

CHICAGO, June 9.—Identity of the girl bandit with "blue eyes and a smile" who killed Richard C. Taylor Tuesday night during a robbery, was declared likely to become an "unsolved mystery" at police tonight.

Fifty or more women have been exhibited before Mrs. Taylor, the widow since the shooting, and she failed to identify any of them. She reiterated tonight that she would know the "right one" by a peculiar smile and blue eyes impressed upon her mind as she saw her husband shot down.

The last three suspects answering the general description of "blue eyed and a peculiar smile" were exonerated today. M. E. Tesla failed to identify two and the other, known as "the female Tommy O'Connor" (gunman) proved un-hired.

CANINES THINK, DOCTOR CLAIMS

More Convolution in Brain Than Other Animals

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—Dogs can think, according to Dr. William J. Lentz, professor of anatomy in the veterinary school of the Univ. of Pennsylvania.

He explains as follows:

"The brain of a dog has more convolutions or folds on the cerebral surface than any other animal except man. Some physiologists deny that this is any indication of the degree of mental power, but it seems to be pretty well borne out that it is. There are many cases on record which show evidence of thought by dogs."

Dr. Lentz said that some dogs seem to understand that, even though veterinarians hurt them, they are really aiding them.

TAYLOR MURDER LOSES ROMANCE

Robbery Clue Anti-Climax Closing Curtain

SEATTLE, Wash., June 9.—One more effort was in progress tonight to answer the riddle of the murder of William Desmond Taylor, movie director which took place two years ago in Los Angeles.

Police of half a dozen coast towns and cities were searching for a "six foot Texas cowboy," named Otto Hoffner, in the belief that he may be the man who holds the answer to the mystery which had gone down as one of the most sinister in the annals of crime.

Paroled From Pen

Hoffner is at liberty from the Washington penitentiary under a suspended sentence for alleged felony. Since he dropped from sight some weeks ago authorities here said they had come into reliable information that a hand and a diamond which he was said to have offered Crawford E. White, attorney, as a retainer once were the property of the murdered Taylor.

Searching deeper into the lunes opened by this information, they came into possession of a story Hoffner is alleged to have told of a gang of bandits, one of whom is alleged to have killed and robbed Taylor.

An Anti-Climax

Which means, that if this account should prove true, then all of the sensational stories which surrounded the death of the movie man, the tales of motion picture actresses emmured of him; of drug peddlers killing him in revenge for the vigorous blows he is known to have struck at their trade; of blackmail; of unfathomed servants; of hands reaching out of an adventurous past to settle old debts; and of all countless other stories were blazoned to the world to no purpose and without bearing on the case.

As for Hoffner, he is not himself suspected of the murder, but according to Matt Starwick, sheriff, Thomas Carmody, deputy prosecutor and attorneys Crawford E. White and George Olson, he may be able to tell who it was that shot Taylor to death.

Killed 2 Years Ago

Taylor, who was known as one of the greatest of the makers of popular motion pictures, was shot to death at his home in Los Angeles one evening nearly two years ago. Last seen he was bidding goodbye to Michel Normand, in front of his home.

The sensation which followed has seldom been equaled in a criminal case. One after one, the many theories advanced were followed through and left nowhere.

Names of movie stars were publicly connected with that of Taylor. Many others came into the scope of the investigation but never reached the point of publication. Finally by the majority of the investigators accepted as most probable the story that a drug peddler, enraged because Taylor had ruined the narcotic trade among members of his immediate circle and had soundly thrashed one agent who tried to entice back to the ranks of the drug addicts a famous screen beauty, who had thrown off the habit with Taylor's help, had committed the murder.

BULGARIAN COUP JAILS MINISTERS

Stamboulysk Government Is Overthrown

BUCHAREST, June 9.—A bloodless coup d'etat was effected at Sofia today, the Bulgarian government of Premier Stamboulysk was overthrown and a new ministry with Professor Zankoff at its head established.

Early this morning, soldiers under the leadership of ex officers and aided by politicians of the parties opposed to the peasant government, raided the parliament buildings and arrested all ministers and deputies they could find. Others surrounded homes of ministers throughout Sofia and captured the entire government.

Frontiers were closed and the militia controlled the situation immediately following the revolt but there was no armed resistance and late tonight everything was tranquil.

Big Audience Sees Red Cross Expert In Nat Exhibition

Before an audience that filled the stands and crowded along one side of the Plaza Auditorium, Captain J. S. Law, assistant director of life saving for the Southwestern division, American Red Cross, demonstrated life saving, resuscitation and swimming methods Saturday night.

Today Captain Law is scheduled to go to the Port Arthur Boy Scouts camp on Beech Creek, near Silsbee, where he will put on a similar demonstration and give the Scouts instruction in swimming and life saving work. Returning to Port Arthur Monday he will repeat the demonstrations at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the pool at Franklin school for the special benefit of Port Arthur Camp Fire Girls, their guardians and Boy Scouts, who are not in the summer camp.

Captain Law's visit to Port Arthur was arranged by the Red Cross chapter here, and in addition to his actual swimming demonstrations, he has met various officials and members of the police and fire departments.

SENATOR AND THE SENATE

Senator J. A. O. Preus of Minnesota had his political game blocked at the eleventh hour and arranged to resign his office of governor and to be appointed to a seat in the senate to fill the vacancy created by the death of Senator Nelson. Preus' intentions were laudable and he failed to commit with Lieutenant Louis J. Collins, the lieutenant-governor of Minnesota.

Collins is a politician. He hopes to be governor some day. He said that the people should decide by direct vote who would wear the mantle of their departed senator. 'Tis true that the resignation of Preus would have made Collins governor if the plan had not miscarried but Collins had his ear to the ground, he knew that the non-partisans had elected a senator last year and he feared that if he became a party to the trade the non-partisans might elect a governor in 1924.

Now a special election will be held in Minnesota on July 16 to elect a successor to Nelson and the primary will be held June 18. Governor Preus may be a candidate in the primary. Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin has decided to make a tour of Minnesota in the interest of a progressive republican, as he did last year, when through his efforts Dr. Henrik Shipstead, a farmer labor candidate, was elected over Senator Frederick M. Kellogg.

The claim is made that the LaFollette control of the legislative situation in the next senate is gradually increasing. Before the death of Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, and Senator Samuel Nicholson of Colorado the republican majority was ten.

Governor William E. Sweet of Colorado appointed Alva B. Adams, democrat, the successor of Nicholson and the republican majority is now six. If a progressive is elected from Minnesota the republican majority would be four, and LaFollette's hold will be strong enough to prevent any party measures not acceptable to the radical group from passing the senate unless they receive the support of about ten senators who are classed as democrats.

Of the senators classed as republicans ten are committed to the LaFollette legislative policy. Therefore the Wisconsin stormy petrel of politics will actually hold the balance of power in the next senate.

Senator Adams, democrat of Colorado, is for a further test of private ownership of the railroads with continued government supervision; repeal of the clause of the Esch-Cummins act creating the railroad labor board; enforcement of the eighteenth amendment; an adequate and effective line of defense and the international policy of LaFollette and those who agree with him do not meet Adams' approval.

If the presidential election should be thrown into the house for decision the LaFolletteites, in a vote by states, may name the successor to Warren G. Harding. Politics may be a gambling game next year.

PAY THE PREACHER

Many interesting statistics were read for the edification of the delegates to the Presbyterian general assembly in session in the city of Indianapolis. An elder from Pennsylvania showed by a long line of figures that ministers on the average were not as well paid as "alien ditch diggers." This he declared to be an economic and moral crime.

According to the statistics submitted the average minister receives scarcely more than the garbage collector, one-half the wage of the carpenter, one-third the wages of the mason. Of the 170,000 active clergymen in the United States only 1671 paid an income tax in excess of $3000 last year while over 21,000 lawyers and over 20,000 doctors did pay such an income tax.

The punch in the thing: the elder from Pennsylvania started something. It was resolved that a campaign be pushed for a $15,000,000 fund for ministerial pensions and relief. William Jennings Bryan is a delegate. His pen and his tongue earn an income of $50,000 a year.

Will H. Hays, president of the motion picture producers of America, is an elder and commissioner from an Indiana Presbyterian although he claims New York City as his place of residence.

As a welfare worker and movie upholder, Colonel Hays takes down a salary of $125,000 a year. But alien ditch diggers take down higher salaries than the preachers of America while two famous Presbyterian politicians have amassed comfortable fortunes by dexterous use of tongue and pen.

Governor William E. Sweet of Colorado is in the limelight. Woodrow Wilson named a senator for him to appoint; William Jennings Bryan named a favorite; William Gibbs McAdoo had a choice and General Leonard Wood gave a friend a lift by cable. Sweet turned them all down and named a rank outsider.

HAYS A GO-GETTER

Col. Will Hays, Napoleonic upholder of the movies, made a discovery that the 10,000 Presbyterian clergymen of America receive an average salary of $34.67 per week and forthwith he launched a campaign for a fund of $15,000,000 to the ministers' pension fund.

Colonel Hays is a go-getter. Just think what he did to the democrats when the republicans made him chairman of their national committee two years ago. He launched the greatest publicity campaign in the history of American politics. He took millions from the pockets of republicans and he put over Harding and Coolidge by a popular majority of 7,000,000. Colonel Hays is a powerful man. He knows what he wants and when he wants it goes and gets it. Now, he'll get the $15,000,000 for the ministers' pension fund and the financial kings of movieland may help the cause along.

GROWTH OF FACTIONS

Can any student of our times, in America, or the world, doubt for a moment that factionalism is developing as never before? We have our factions which seek to promote this or that interest, without regard to the relationship to others and without regard for the common weal. We have factions of hatred and prejudice and violence. We have coalitions which would invade the constitutional rights of others or subvert the constitution itself. We have our factions challenging both civil and religious liberty and without them both made everlasting secure there can be no real human liberty. We have the fatal factionalism which contemplates obstruction to the execution of the law. No nation will survive which this factionalism endures. Hamilton warned us that "however such combinations or associations may now and then answer popular ends, they are likely to set themselves to usurp the reins of government, destroying afterward the very engines which have lifted them to unjust dominion." Washington uttered the same caution. It was Hamilton's conception that the federal influence would crush out the same factions, taking heed, of course, of whatever a call to real justice had in any way inspired. Many proclaimed him a monarchist and a foe of liberty. Others thought him an imperialist and an enemy of democracy, but he was none of these. It was from Hamilton's lips that came the finest utterance ever made concerning human liberty, "the sacred rights of mankind are written as with a sunbeam, by the hand of Divinity itself, never to be erased or obscured by mortal power."

President Harding.

ALIENS COMING IN

According to Washington advices during the last fiscal year the number of immigrants admitted was 309,556, of whom 243,953 were from countries to which the three per cent limitation applies. That is, three per cent of nationals in this country in 1910.

About 75,000 more immigrants have arrived already this year from these countries, chiefly European, and the excess over last year by June 30, promises to be close to 100,000. Furthermore it is claimed that with the Canadians and others not subject to limitation who are coming in the total immigration this fiscal year is likely to be not far from 450,000, an excess of nearly 150,000 over last year.

It is said immigration from the British Isles this year already is nearly equal to 79,577 admitted in 1921 before the three per cent law went into effect which was not far short of the normal British immigration before the world war.

Skilled and unskilled labor furnished the principal increases in the immigration this year over last year and while more workers are coming, fewer workers are departing. According to the immigration statisticians in the ten months of this fiscal year only 65,773 aliens have emigrated, compared with 198,717 last year.

In addition, last year, 70,126 native born Americans and 9,072 naturalized Americans emigrated, chiefly to Poland, Canada and Italy. This is what prosperity is doing for America. Last year thousands of aliens, seeking to better their economic conditions, landed on these shores.

A COMMONER WINS HONOR

King George has named Stanley Baldwin as prime minister of Great Britain. In doing this, the king ignored the existence and the political ambition of Lord Curzon. Baldwin is a commoner, newcomer in politics, a statesman who has risen from political obscurity to the highest rung of the political ladder in less time than four years. This is a world of change but Great Britain is changing faster than any one of the other nations of the earth. Universal suffrage is responsible for the change and 146 labor members of parliament constitutes a potential force that even a king must recognize.

MONEY TO BURN

An Iowa editor of a weekly farm journal prints the astounding information that the American railways make $25,000,000,000 profit every year. This is not the most depressing side of the story. Many of his readers willgulp it down and swear it is the gospel truth. There are men who contend that figures never lie. They should go to Iowa and interview the author of the $25,000,000,000 profit story. Not long ago an expert estimated the value of American railways somewhere in the neighborhood of $9,000,000,000. Politics is a funny game and the Iowa editor must be a devoted follower of Senator Smith Brookhart who is preaching an amazing gospel of political economy.

WHO WOULD RETURN?

Now the reformers are growing noisy in Illinois. They say that in 1915 the lawmakers appropriated $47,000,000 for the maintenance of all departments of state government for two years; in 1921 lawmakers appropriated $120,000,000 for a like purpose. These critics of progress in Illinois neglect to tell the people that the lawmakers invested $30,000,000 in good roads and that a civilized commonwealth needs good roads if it needs anything. Civilization comes high but who would vote to return to the ox-cart period, mud roads, bridgeless streams and to other relics of the ox-cart days?

RICE GROWERS IN NEW POOL

A. H. Boyt Re-Elected Association President

BRAUMONT, Texas, June 6.—A. H. Boyt was re-elected district manager of the American Rice Growers association in its annual meeting held here Tuesday night. Together with W. C. Lovell he was also elected on the general board of directors with headquarters at Lake Charles.

The five trustees re-elected on the local board were: W. G. Lovell, M. Tillery, A. H. Boyt, O. A. Amon and J. R. Blanche.

Upward of 168,401 barrels of rough rice, with an average price of $3.50 a barrel, were handled through the association last season, according to the report of A. H. Boyt.

Assurance of a $4 market for high grades of rice and plans for another year were the features of the district manager's report.

3 SENTENCED IN OIL FRAUD CASE

'General Lee' Promoters Get 2 and 10 Years and Fine

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 6.—Three oil promoters today faced penitentiary terms as the result of the first court test in the federal government's campaign to stamp out fraudulent stock selling.

"General" Robert A. Lee, Charles Sherwin and Harry H. Schwarz, promoters of the General Lee Interests in which the American public has poured thousands upon thousands of dollars, were found guilty and sentenced last night by United States District Judge Benjamin Bledsoe.

Lee, figurehead in the company, was given a total penalty of two years imprisonment and $30,000 fine, and Sherwin and Schwarz, the actual promoters, each sentenced to a total of 10 years imprisonment and assessed a fine of $15,000.

The next case to go to trial in the government fight against fake oil companies is that of J. W. Carruth, promoter of the J. W. Carruth Oil company and the Hog Creek Carruth Oil company, and his associates. This, it was expected, would get under way today.

England Is Building Many Mystery Planes

LONDON, June 6.—Handicapped by lack of parliamentary appropriations in building up an air fleet that will match in numbers that of France, British investors are concentrating on quality.

Few weeks pass without a new mystery airplane. Two are at present under construction for the air ministry.

One, now undergoing trial flights at Norwich, is a giant all-steel bomber, driven by four propellers—two pulling and two pushing. It will be propelled by two tremendously powerful engines working independently, one working the pulling propellers and the other the pushing ones.

The plane will have three cockpits and a cabin, and is to be armed with machine-guns.

There is a great mystery surrounding the completion of the second plane at Bristol. It will be a tri-plane, driven by twin propellers set in the center tier of wings. It will have a Napier engine of new design.

In place of the usual tail-skid, the new machine has a steerable tail-wheel which will permit its being turned while on the ground in remarkably small space.

Automatic brakes are fitted to the tail-wheel, which will enable a sudden stop on the ground.

Greatest secrecy is being maintained to the precise use, speed and armament of the new airplane. It is said to have the most powerful engine ever conceived.

ship yards. The Oswego will take lumber in Port Arthur and sail for Tampa for a cargo of coal oil. It is expected the tanker will be in port here about 30 days or two weeks.

Jap Session Says Those In U.S. Treated Unfairly

TOKIO, June 6.—Appointment of an official high commission to investigate and recommend a solution of the treatment of Japanese in America, was urged today by the Japanese-American relations committee.

The recommendations were in the form of a statement adopted at a meeting Thursday.

It was held by many at the meeting that "unfair treatment" of Japanese menaces friendly relations of the American and Japanese nations.

PLAY NO NOVEL PLOT

"Let's All Get Married" To Be Presented Friday Evening

Another theatricals continue to hold the interest of the younger set, even though school has closed and with all the many spectacles and plays which marked the spring season, have been discontinued.

"Let's All Get Married" will be presented Friday evening, June 15, at the First Christian church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society.

A Complete Plot

The play is in two acts, both of which take place in the living room of Professor Maxwell Parrington's home. Many amusing incidents occur.

The story tells of the troubles of Prof. Parrington and his fiancee, Marjorie Miller, who have quarreled, following which she has gone to Europe for an extensive visit. Through Prof. Parrington's uncle's will, if the young people are not married by his birth-day, which falls on Friday the 13th, they lose a large inheritance. Both have artistic tempers and the whole plot centers around the tempers. The grass is not green on the uncle's grave before the quarrel which sends Marjorie to Europe. He writes her to come home and marry him, but she tersely cables back, "Nothing Doing." It is at this point that the play opens.

An elaborate birthday party is being prepared for Prof. Parrington.

In the meantime, however, Prof. Parrington has written a book, which is received with favor by all the newspapers and public, with the exception of a Baltimore paper which writes an unfavorable criticism. The newspaper man, Jack Foster, who writes the criticism, and Prof. Parrington's sister, Ethel, are in love with each other. Prof. Parrington knows nothing of the love affair, and knows Foster only by name.

Intrigue

Foster, pretending that he is a clergymen, visits the Parrington home. Prof. Parrington is especially fond of clergymen, and his best friend is Rev. Benjamin Morris, whom Foster willingly says he knows. Complications arise when Rev. Morris also visits the Parrington home.

The family lawyer, Everett Payne, advises Prof. Parrington to marry his stenographer Goldie McGrath in order to receive the inheritance; since the will says that she should be married, and doesn't specify whom they should marry.

The Marjorie, repentant, arrives from Europe. More complications ensue when she finds Prof. Parrington about to be married. She, too, pretends that she is married, that she has been married six months.

When an unexpected burglar is reported to be in the neighborhood Foster decides to put the family silver away—Seeing him with the silver they think he's a burglar. When accused, he declares he's Marjorie's husband.

The Cast

The cast for the play includes: Prof. Maxwell Parrington, Ethel, his sister—Mrs. Mary McGrath, Laura Plum, his aunt—Mrs. W. E. Clinton.

Marjorie Miller, his fiancee and cousin—Miss Wee Wee Griffin, Goldie McGrath, his very competent stenographer—Mrs. Willa Robertshaw.

Small Black Dog Acts As Mother to Gentle Young Lion

BERLIN, June 9.—Berlin's zoo is probably more successful than any other in the world as a breeding place of wild animals. While it lost many inhabitants during the war, care was taken to keep pairs, and the cages are gradually being restocked with animals born in captivity.

Strang foster families are developed by the keepers, who have learned the difficulties of compelling certain mothers to look after their young under the unnatural conditions they face in captivity.

A few months ago a fine lion cub was entrusted to a small black female dog. The young lion is now five times as large as his foster mother and is developing a heavy mane. Still he is as docile as a puppy and he and the little dog remain on the best of terms and play about together to the great joy of visiting children.

MUSIC BLOTS OUT WAR'S MEMORIES

NEW YORK, June 9.—When young Clara Brand, from Germany, took her violin from its case on Ellis Island and played American tunes, several "refugees" from the occupied territory of the Fatherland joined in singing our national air.

It was a joyous throng of Germans that landed here from several ships. They seemed to rejoice in the fact that about the only quota now open for immigrants under the American restrictive law is the German.

They said thousands are anxious to come here from the country now occupied by the French.

DEAL IN MARKS COSTS SPECULATOR $34,000

NEW YORK, June 9.—A verdict by a supreme court jury will cost Isidore Settle, dry goods merchant, $34,000 in addition to $9000 already paid to Albert H. Danino, a foreign exchange broker, to settle for a deal in German marks which he entered into in November, 1930.

Danino alleges he lost the money through the failure of Settle to make good on a "short sale" of 12,300,000 marks. Isidore Ehrman, attorney for Danino,

Revival ends SUNDAY NIGHT

Dr. Moore To Go To Lisbon, Ohio

"The Unparsonable Sin" is the sermon subject at the closing services of the revival at Nazarene Tabernacle, Twelfth and Main streets, Sunday night at 7:30.

Immediately after the services Evangelist J. E. L. Moore leaves for New Orleans en route to Lisbon, Ohio, where he will spend the rest of June conducting similar meetings. Conversations made during the past week were to be received into the church during the Sunday morning service. A large class was received last Sunday, but indications were that this Sunday's class would exceed the first enrollment.

The revival has been in progress since May 25. Interest in the song service and sermon subjects has been very encouraging to the evangelist and the pastor, they said Saturday.

(La.) INVITES COUNTY TO BE HIS GUEST

Benton, Texas, Lawyer Plans Program for 60,000

BONHAM, Texas, June 9—Will H. Evans of Bonham is going to give a party. It will be a party such as this part of Texas, at least, has never seen before. For three days and nights the entire citizenship of Fannin county is to be his guests in a series of entertainment programs, without costs to anyone except Evans, who for many years has been active in virtually all public, civic and improvement activities in this section.

Evans, a lawyer, real estate man and bank director, declares his reason is simply this:

"I want to say 'Thank You' to all the people for their many kindnesses to me. When I came here in 1890, a 13-year-old youth direct from the farm, I needed encouragement more than anything else. I got it. The people of Fannin county have been good to me. I appreciate it, and this is the way I'm taking to announce my gratitude."

Party Set for July 10 to 12

He has set the dates for his "party" here as July 10 to 12; for by that time the schools will be closed for the summer, the farmers will have their crops laid by, and the "protracted meetings" will have ended. Everyone will be free to enjoy Watt Evans' hospitality.

The programs have been divided into classes to suit persons of all ages, but at each there will be music, addresses, motion pictures and other forms of entertainment. Boys and girls who have won various contests in the Fannin county schools will have places on the programs. A letter has been leased for many of the events.

All that the 60,000 inhabitants of the county will have to do will be to provide their own food and refreshments. Everything else at the party is on Evans.

He has announced that the party is not restricted to Fannin county alone. He wants all his friends in other counties to be present as well.

Sleeps With Corpse Of Wife, Off to Work Unaware of Death

DENVER, Colo., June 9.—E. W. Eisner, painter and decorator, slept in the same bed with the corpse of his wife and went to work in the morning without knowing she was dead.

Deputy Coroner George Boatwick said Mrs. Eisner's death was due to natural causes. She was 50 years old and had been a sufferer from tuberculosis for many years.

Eisner said he arose at 6:30 o'clock. As he got out of bed, half awake, he shook his wife a couple of times, he told the police, and then went out of the room and to work, thinking she was getting up. J. J. Smith, 247 Larimer street, who had an appointment with Eisner to obtain employment, called at the Eisner home, 619 Twenty-second street, at 8 o'clock.

Finding Eisner gone from the shop in the front part of the place, Smith walked back into the living quarters. Seeing Mrs. Eisner lying in bed, he was alarmed at the whiteness of her face and summoned the police.

MIRACLE SHOCK RESTORES SIGHT

After Year of Blindness Girl Of 13 Sees Again

CORTLAND, Ohio, June 9.—Pink and white blossoms of the peach and apple trees are more beautiful than ever to 13 year old Gladys Shaffer here.

For a modern miracle has reopened her sightless eyes.

A marvellous panorama is slowly unfolding before her as she wanders through the orchard back of her home. The flowers and the shrubs, the roses and the blue bird, the fish in the brook—all have taken on a new meaning for Gladys.

A year ago a bolt of lightning left her totally blind. Specialists declared her sight probably never would be restored.

But a plug-in vacuum cleaner did the unusual. Gladys, unscrewing the plug from a light socket touched the contacts with her right hand. A shock went through her whole body.

"Oh, Mother!" she called. "I can see again!"

"It was just as if my eyeball had turned over," she explained later. Her recovery is a mystery to physicans who predicted total blindness for the girl whose blue eyes behind their heavy dark glasses now sparkle with the joy of complete happiness.

CANNIBALS ARE FORCED TO QUIT

African Natives Face Prison Sentence by Decree

PARIS, June 9.—By signing a decree making cannibalism punishable by one to ten years in prison, President Millerand has supplied a law very much needed at present in the criminal code of France.

Although it is recorded in the history of what is now France, that the savages of Brittany used to invade Gaul and eat the thighs of its shepherds, the country had become quite civilized by the time the French criminal code was put together. It was not considered necessary to prohibit cannibalism specifically.

However, for the past decade the French authorities in the colonies of equatorial Africa have had a great deal of difficulty with cannibalism. All the arguments to prove it an immoral and odious practice were too subtle for the native savages. Finally the colonial authorities decided the only practical way to impress the natives with the horror of cannibalism was to punish it with hard labor.

If the native obtained his meat by murder the legal processes were simplified. There was a law for that. And even if he simply received a choice morsel from a friend without participating in the kill, he was jailed for receiving stolen goods.

Legislative difficulties arose, however, when natural death provided material for a festival touched by law. Now President Millerand has supplied one.

There is no loophole in the law, pointed out by the colonial authorities—it forbids cannibalism or traffic in human flesh by the "natives." According to the colonial authorities, it would have been well to forbid it generally—because the extraordinary conditions of tropical life produce queer perversions and reverberations, and civilized men have been known to develop a taste for human flesh.

SAYS GIRLS' $2 NOSE IS LUXURY*Tennessee Judge Gives Very Unique Decision

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 9.—When women's luxury reach the price of $2 a pair they cross the line that divides moderation from luxury.

Such is an opinion handed down in circuit court here by Judge Von A. Huffaker in a case in which the M. M. Newcomer Co. sued L. A. Farrell for a bill of $67.67 for wearing apparel for his wife. The couple have been divorced since the bill was contracted, the testimony showed.

The principle involved was whether or not a man could be forced to pay his wife's bills. Some of the wearing apparel was for children of the couple.

The court apparently held that the husband should pay the bills of his family and for the clothing of wife and children, even if there had been a divorce since. But when he came to items of luxury that cost $2 and upward, the decision took another turn. Judge Huffaker declared when a pair of hose costs to the $2 mark it is too high a price for any woman to afford a man's pants with.

Therefore, Judge Huffaker knocked off the judgment the sum of $20, that being the amount he asserted the wife had indulged in unnecessary luxuries.

He declared that it was not right for a husband to be made to pay $2, $3 and more a pair for his wife's hose.

The court also knocked $10 off the bill for a corset.

Judge Huffaker expressed the opinion that garments of this nature should be priced more moderately. The judgment was for $47.

You Are Entitled to Credit on Dental Work! Why Wait and Suffer Till You Save the Cash?

The more we think of the step we took when we announced that we would do dental work on an easy payment plan—the more we talk to folks who come to us to have their dental work done on that plan—the more we wonder that we or someone else didn't realize long before that Dentistry ought to be done on a credit basis in justice to everybody.

There's no reason in the world why you should be forced to pay cash to have your teeth put in perfect condition when you can buy practically everything else on credit—furniture, jewelry, clothing, automobiles; in fact we don't know of anything you can't buy on credit.

You are entitled to credit on dentistry and we are certainly glad in more ways than one that we were the first dentists in the State of Texas, so far as we know, who established credit dentistry.

We are glad because it was right.

We are glad because folks appreciate it and a greater number are coming to us day after day to have their dental work done on our easy payment plan.

We are glad because it has enabled us to reduce our prices and give everyone the best dental work obtainable for considerably less than they would pay elsewhere.

And after all, the one big thing about credit dentistry is that it enables everyone to get their dental work done when they need it. That's the outstanding feature that no one should overlook.

Dental work should never be put off. It ought to be done right now—with the first ache or before an ache—when a cavity or bad tooth develops.

By having your dental work done right now—you will save money—and you will prevent pain.

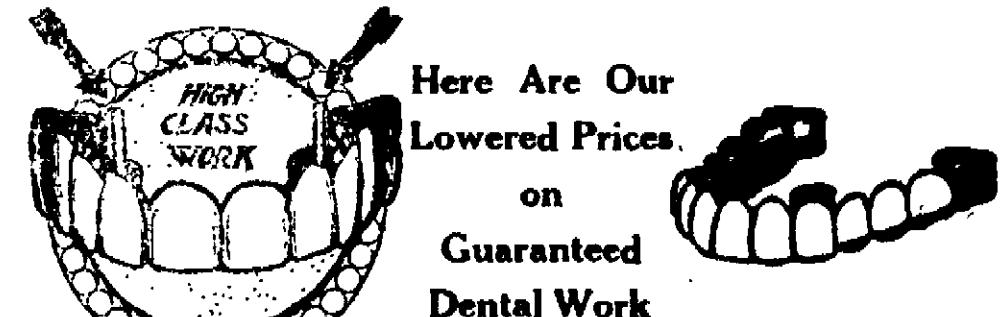

Why wait?

Now is the time.

Just come to our offices and we will give your teeth a thorough examination and tell you what it will cost to put them in perfect shape.

We will start right then to do the work if you want us to. You don't have to worry about the bill at all. We'll make any arrangement that satisfies you for payment in small weekly sums after the work is completed.

Use your credit. You are entitled to it. Get your teeth fixed now! Come to Drs. Blake & Sheffield and pay as you are able.

BLUC TO IN 'STREET'

Ask to Force Congress to Start Probe

By United Press
PORT ARTHUR, June 11.—The big bloc will try to force through the coming congress a resolution for the most searching congressional investigation of "Wall Street" ever undertaken.

"Wall Street" is the bloc's name for the New York's whole financial machine, including the Stock Exchange, brokerage houses, and big financial institutions. The investigation which form blocs will demand, will be aimed chiefly at speculative trading but will include as well the methods of the great banking houses, which are chief sources of credit.

Violent农地反叛
Recent sensational failures of New York brokerage concerns and the government's unsuccessful suit against the New York Sugar Exchange is an effort to stop speculative activities which the Justice department blamed for the sugar price increase have removed the farm bloc's hostility toward "Wall Street" which many of its members blame for the farmer's troubles.

Western and southern farm bloc members have been corresponding with a view to organizing the bloc to put through in the early days of the coming session a sweeping investigation resolution. At a general conference of farm bloc senators and house members to be held in Washington later this summer, a definite plan for bringing about the inquiry will be made.

The inquiry is to be directed to these points:

Who Has the Money?

1—What relation do speculative activities in New York bear to the country's money supplies; that is, does speculation tie such money that ought to be available for credit for farmers and business men?

2—How does speculation affect prices?

3—Can congress pass laws that will stand the test of the courts, to fix speculation, both as to commodities like sugar, coffee and similar articles, and as to stocks?

4—What percentage of Wall Street's business is legitimate and necessary and how much of it is purely speculative?

5—What are the relations and effects of Wall Street's financial agencies and methods upon affairs of the United States government?

These main questions will open a vast field of inquiry so that, if the investigation as authorized by the bloc wants it, the entire financial structure of the country will be searched.

What the farm blocs expect to accomplish by this is:

1—Revelation of the "secrecy" of speculation; the causes of such failure as have recently occurred.

Credit Limitations

2—Disclosure of the responsibility for limitation of credit to farmers which farm blocs assert either the government or Wall Street or perhaps both were to blame for.

3—Definite legislation in a word, the reformation by the west and the south in concert of the Wall Street system, as the blocs call it.

Such an investigation will be stoutly resisted, chiefly on the ground that it would be of little value. The fight over it is likely to be carried into the 1924 political campaign.

Berlin Terrorized by Madmen
With Knives

BERLIN, June 11.—A group of madmen is terrorizing women and foreigners in Berlin.

One apparently a sort of Jack the Ripper, slashes portions of girls' clothing. Another slips off hair braids, while a third, who includes male foreigners in his attacks, shucks from a squat gun a dark, scalding substance that ruins clothing.

A long series of attacks has ended in a request by the police to all inhabitants of Berlin to participate in a city-wide search for the zeuge.

WOULD CONTROL MEDITERRANEAN

Powers Again Kick Around
Apple of Discord

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Mediterranean sea, or European riviera for many hundred years, is again looking as a cause of discord among Great Britain, France, Italy and Spain.

Until the German menace in the North Sea distracted attention from the Mediterranean, before the World War, the powers of Europe regarded the waterway between themselves and their North African possessions as their center of naval operation. Now that Germany has been made impotent for at least a generation, the Mediterranean is resuming its old importance as a disturber of diplomatic cordialities.

From one end of the Mediterranean to the other, Spain, France, Italy and Great Britain hold African possessions which give them all an interest in the Mediterranean. Italy and France, themselves fronting the European shore of the Mediterranean, consider their claims paramount. But Great Britain holds Gibraltar, which commands the entrance to the sea, and Spain's control of Ceuta, in Africa, directly opposite Gibraltar, gives the Spaniards an influence out of proportion to Spain's real military strength.

Claims of Italy

Italy claims the moral right to be regarded as the mistress of the Mediterranean, because all of the Italian coastline borders that water, or one of its arms. No other nation is in a like position. Italy's whole naval strength is permanently stationed in the Mediterranean, by reason of Italy's geological position. This increases the power of the Italian claim. If Italy were wealthy enough, her controlling position couldn't be doubted.

But France and Great Britain have the more secure financial hold. Therefore, they count more in the Mediterranean than the actual number of their battleships in that water.

The real conflict now proceeding under the surface for domination of the Mediterranean is between France and Great Britain. The French have started the contest by developing a new intimacy with the Sultan of Morocco. France and Spain both have Monroe spheres of influence. As long as Spain has the greater influence at the Sultan's court, Great Britain is not disturbed. Spain's capacity for any kind of offensive action is strictly limited.

The British Disturbed

But France's growing strength in Morocco is more disturbing to the British. There is always the possibility, Great Britain thinks, that if the French become masters in Morocco territory they will proceed to challenge Gibraltar's sole guardianship of the straits, and will then seek to erect a counter-Gibraltar on the African side. The French authorities, this disquietude is needless, because Gibraltar would be at the mercy of an aeroplane attack if ever the need arose. That argument, however, is of doubtful force.

The British government says no consent to any change in the present demilitarized status of the African border of the Straits of Gibraltar. France is unwilling to challenge Great Britain on this point for the moment. But, with the successive defeats of Spain in her warfare against the tribesmen in Spanish Morocco, France's prestige is constantly increasing in that neighborhood.

It now appears to be only a question of time when France will be paramount in Morocco. That being so, France will gain increasing prestige throughout the Mediterranean. Then will come negotiations for an Anglo-Italian understanding as a counter-move, to keep the ball rolling.

MOORE CLOSES REVIVAL HERE

52 Conversions Made at Nazarene Services

Constant, continual, and final rejection of the word of God is the "unpardonable" sin, Evangelist J. E. L. Moore told his audience in the closing services at the Nazarene tabernacle Sunday night.

With the largest crowd of the entire revival in attendance, the two weeks' special services came to a successful close. Interest and enthusiasm in the song service ran high, and during the period of testifying many told what the revival had meant to them.

Thanking every one for the cooperation given during the two weeks' of the revival, the evangelist delivered what the audience considered the best sermon of the entire series.

"There are usually three kinds of persons in the audience during a sermon of this kind," said Dr. Moore. "Those who are constantly worried as to whether they have committed the unpardonable sin; those who are partly worried about it, and those who are completely unconcerned about sin. The latter I fear may have committed the unpardonable sin."

He then outlined the various kinds of sin, and said that none of those were the unpardonable sin as long as there was any desire to be forgiven.

The sermon topic was illustrated with characters in Scripture who, in his judgment, remained hardened in their sin and committed the unpardonable sin.

SHIP'S CAREER ENDS ON PYRE

Famous Clipper Is Burned For Its Metal

SEATTLE, Wash., June 11.—Passengers on steamers plying between Seattle and Seattle, Wash., Sunday night, May 13, saw a red glare in the sky.

From a distance it looked like a conflagration in the district of summer homes that extends along the head south of Seattle, but as the boats rounded the point the blaze came into view—the hull of a dismantled ship wrapped in flames from dock to waterline.

It was the funeral pyre of the Glory, the seas' most famous of old clipper ships.

The Glory was built in 1869, at the yards of Donald McKay in Boston. She was a splendid example of the almost lost art of wooden ship-building, and her trim lines and extraordinary speed were known on many oceans. It was the Glory that sailed from New York around the Horn to San Francisco in 100 days, a record said never to have been equalled by a ship of her type.

Her speed and seaworthiness kept her in commission long after steam began to crowd sailing from the seas, but when she was forty-four years old the inevitable happened, and the Glory was taken out of service and fitted up as a refrigerator ship to be towed humbly after the Alaska salmon fleet. And presently even that usefulness was denied her and she lay rotting at a Tacoma dock.

Finally her owners decided to scuttle the iron and copper in her hull and burn her.

A group of Boston shipping men, buying her down, talked of buying her, to keep as a relic of the picturesque days of square riggers, and a proof of what the old ship-builders could do. But the plan failed and what was left of the Glory was towed out, beached and set on fire, startling homing travelers, most of whom had not been born when her keel was laid.

We have now in Texas about 5,000 miles of good roads, but there is not a stretch of a hundred miles of good roads connecting. If this amendment becomes a law, Texas will get more than 12,000 miles of permanent connected highways. The counties will receive the same amount of money that they are now receiving but will not have to spend any money on the state roads, it will give more money to build county roads.

Cook and Smith Play At Night Game

Special to The News.
SULPHUR, La., June 11.—Playing the unopened game of baseball that has been presented here this season, the Sulphur Miners yesterday took the fast Pari Arthur Elk nine into camp 2 to 1 in a Ettrick nine that will long be remembered locally as a classic battle.

Cook, who hurried for the visiting contingent, and Vines, who pitched for Sulphur, staged a veritable pitcher's battle, and the latter won. Cook let the locals down with five hits, while the Elk's were challenged with but three.

Richardson, centerfielder for the local crew, played perhaps the most sensational fielding game he has presented this season on the lineup. He nabbed Jordan of a neat hit and gathered himself another running stab during the game that prevented a possible run and a hit.

Smith, playing center field for the visiting club, was an "ace in the hole" for the Elks at his position.

The visitors went scoreless until the ninth frame, and their rally came too late to win for them. And likewise, seven standins were checked on the card before a player passed second base. The score:

FAMILY LIVED ON SAME FARM SINCE 983 A.D.

PARIS, June 1.—Talk about your F. E. Y. and your blue-blooded Kineckhoefer New Yorkers who have been located over there since the days when newcomers traded vapumous and rumin with the original Americans.

They are upstairs compared with certain modest French families, farmers and so on, which have just been honored by the ministry of agriculture. One of them has been plowing and reaping on the same patch of ground since a couple of years before William of Normandy took it into his head to cross the Channel and make England. The modern representative of the family is one the list of those who have received the cross of agricultural merit.

His name is Robert Lassansier-Poulin and he is the 24th to bear the name since his ancestor settled on a little farm in Languedoc near Paul, in the south of France. That was in the year of grace 1023—precisely close to a thousand years ago. When a Parisian newspaper man went to see him the other day he proudly exhibited the original birth certificate of his ancestor, Robert Arnaud Guillen Poulin, who first saw the light of day on Dec. 18, in the year 983.

JAP SUICIDES USE RAT POISON ROUTE

TOKYO, June 11.—A vast fortune in Japan awaits the genius who can invent a rat poison that will burn off rodents, but upon which human beings can thrive and wax fat.

The Japanese, who are strong for suicide, have been doing the rat-poison route to an astonishing extent this year.

The authorities have become greatly alarmed. They cannot prohibit the sale of rat-poison, for if they do rats will capture the country. And, at the same time, they must do something to check the tremendous and fatal scourge of rat poison as human food.

Poison is for sale at almost every corner shop in Japan. Fire-arms are not for sale anywhere. Nobody "earns a gun" in Japan—not even the cops. Harakiri, or disemboweling, and jumping into the mouth, the ancient forms of suicide seem to have fallen into disfavor. Poison is the mode.

A house never in the screen door is worth two in the bed.

Please be quiet. A foolish man yelled so loud he broke his jaw.

This is the age of speed. Wouldn't it be great if next fall arrived right after this swing?

Man Behind Dempsey-Gibbons Bout Was Professional Baseball Player

By BOB DOMAN

Shelby, Mont., June 11.—Tex Rickard had a rival.

Mike Collins, matchmaker and promoter of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby on July 4, has invaded a field that Tex has long looked upon as his own private property.

Therefore, Tex alone has dared the staging of ring contests involving expenses running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Rickard has been shrewd. With uncanny judgment he has picked the places for holding his fights, and in almost every case the results have been successful.

But never in his biggest gambles did Tex Rickard undertake the venture that Mike Collins has dared.

He has brought together Dempsey and Gibbons for a bout, the expense of which will run at least $400,000.

And the site for the fight is Shelby, Mont., a thousand miles from any large center of population, a town itself of but 1000 inhabitants.

From present indications the fight will be a financial success. Already the advance sale of tickets has run far ahead of any previous fight.

Collins knew his west. He knew the free and easy sportsmanship of its people. He knew their determination to finish anything they started.

"I was born in Hudson, Wis., 44

territory—not since the memorable fight between Johnson in 1910 has the west witnessed an important championship match.

Mike Collins hails from St. Paul, where he is fight promoter, manager of boxers and with all, finds time to attend to his editorial duties as head of the Minneapolis Star.

I wanted to be a half player.

From 1900 to 1907 I was with Tex.

As I was supposed to be an authority on sporting characters in the state of Wisconsin, they wanted me to entertain the press.

"I played every position on the team, starting as pitcher. But I was not quite good enough at each place and finally wound up in right field.

"In 1907 I first got mixed up in the ring game.

"I was born in Hudson, Wis., 44 years ago. I graduated from high school and then spent a year at St. John's College.

"Then I left school in my anxiety to get at what I thought was my life ambition. And it wasn't the ring, either.

"As the promoter of the fight was unknown to both he and Mike, and as I was supposed to be an authority on sporting characters in the state of Wisconsin, they wanted me to entertain the press.

"I played every position on the team, starting as pitcher. But I was not quite good enough at each place and finally wound up in right field.

"I was born in Hudson, Wis., 44 days ago.

"We used to frequent the poker and dice joints on Second Street and would "lend" at 20 p. m. to 20 p. m. to the billiard room where the gamblers used to be held cold and dark. I was told that we could probably find the poker in a certain place.

"We found this all right, but he claimed it was too late, just I wasn't going to make reference to that fight after all my reckoning.

"I got the fighters dressed in plain clothes and we made the rounds of the saloons in Milwaukee, where I bought drinks for the crowd and explained that we were on our way to the arena to hold the fight.

"I made up my mind that I would go to get that money back and now, to hold the fight.

"I spent the next three

EMPLOYMENT IN EUROPE

Employment Seriously Threatening

CONTINUATION. June 11.—Unemployment still continues the most serious economic menace threatening the entire world at the present time.

The United States, England, and Switzerland, all countries on a sound financial basis now, are virtually the only ones that have succeeded so far this year in seriously overcoming the unemployment situation. In nearly all of the other countries the situation remained virtually the same as last year.

These facts have been established by world-wide statistics received at the International Labor Bureau and made public today. While some countries show a slight improvement, due to local conditions, others show a slight increase in unemployment so that save for the three countries mentioned above the world-wide unemployment situation has made very little improvement over that of last year. In the United States the situation has been largely overcome by a steady increase in production, notably in the building trades, but actual labor shortage along certain lines and transportation difficulties have prevented a complete adjustment to date.

In England the situation has improved as a result of increased production in coal and other mining and in the steel, iron, woolen, carpet, clothing and paper industries.

Switzerland, the only other country that has succeeded in materially bettering its situation has reduced by 3,500 the number of totally unemployed.

Canada has played in somewhat bad luck and the number of unemployed especially in the trade unions has increased considerably this year.

Norway, Denmark and Holland all show an increase in unemployment over last year. In France and Belgium the situation remains pretty much unchanged.

Austria, which was undergoing a serious increase in unemployment at the end of last year, has been able to check this.

In Germany, although the percentage of unemployed in the trade unions was only 4.4 per cent at the end of January and which was about normal compared with the pre-war conditions of 1913 this situation has been greatly changed since then by the Ruhr occupation. Agriculture alone in Germany has shown an increased demand for labor.

Nothing in the statistics received by the International Labor Bureau hold out hope for any real immediate improvement in the general world-wide situation.

30,000 WORDS PER DAY
SENT BY GERMAN RADIO

BERLIN, June 11.—Sixty, out of every 10 words sent by radio from Germany is destined for the United States of America.

Germany sends approximately 30,000 words a day by wireless telegraph and 30,000 of these are addressed to New York.

A significant point is that of 31,000 words recently sent on one day, 25,000 were for the receiving station at New York, much of it being press matter for the American newspapers and press associations for relay to South America and the Orient.

Germany now sends radio telegrams direct from the great sending station Elvissen near Baden directly to the Egyptian radio station Abu-Zabab.

TELLS COLORS WITHOUT EYES

Training is a Newly Developed Science

PARIS, June 11.—Experiments carried out at the Cochlin Hospital, in the presence of official observers from the Academy of Science, have proved the possibility of "seeing without eyes."

The experiments were the result of many years' labor on the part of a young scientist named Louis Farigoule, whose studies led him to believe that human beings have a sense hitherto undeveloped but capable of being utilized by practice.

Several persons trained by M. Farigoule lent themselves to the experiments. The eyes of the person chosen were bandaged, not as in theatrical exhibitions, but hermetically, by means of paper bands glued over the closed eyelids covered by bands of cloth and finally by leather spectacles. One of the spectators was then asked to choose half a dozen pieces of colored paper bearing various numbers in groups of three which he handed to the "subject."

In every case the latter was able, by placing the piece of paper close to the forehead and moving it slowly in front of the eyes, to read the number and tell the color. With a view to preventing any charge of collusion, one doctor present was asked to choose himself blindfolded, at random a slip of paper from a wall almanac. Nobody saw the date but the "subject" after two minutes was able to announce "May 21". It was correct. The actual reading of printed words was also accomplished, but this presented much more difficulty.

In Mexico, bandits tried to catch a tourist for ransom, but the tourist ran some himself.

FUNERAL COSTS WILL BE LOWER

Germans Propose To Curtail Expenses

BERLIN, June 11.—Plainer coffins, shallower graves, community funerals and smaller burying plots—these are some of the proposals of the Berlin council to reduce the cost of burial here.

The cost of getting oneself properly laid away has assumed such proportions in Germany that a man with an ordinary income simply can't afford a respectable funeral.

Prussians have always put a lot of stress on their final rites, utilizing coffins of extraordinary size and made of the heaviest and most expensive wood. They spend much money on pompous funeral services and pay out large sums to grave diggers to place the dead at a depth generally considered proper for decent burial.

But these things run into a lot of uniks these days. Therefore, the town council, after deliberating with the city undertakers, has decided upon the following innovations:

Caskets will be reduced in size from a yard in height to about a foot and a half and from hexagonal shape to the ordinary four-sided box shape familiar in America. Graves will be only 1.2 yards deep instead of two yards as heretofore. The plot will be smaller.

Instead of a lot of individual funerals which require a lot of sets of pallbearers and individual hearses, mourners and services the city will send around an enlarged automobile hearse upon which four or five caskets may be placed and deliver them at the burying grounds at one-fifth the previous cost. One set of pallbearers, one preacher and one service will be needed. Wood for coffins will be furnished from the state forests at reduced prices—the wood being pine.

EXPECT 75,000 ELKS AT ATLANTA GRAND LODGE

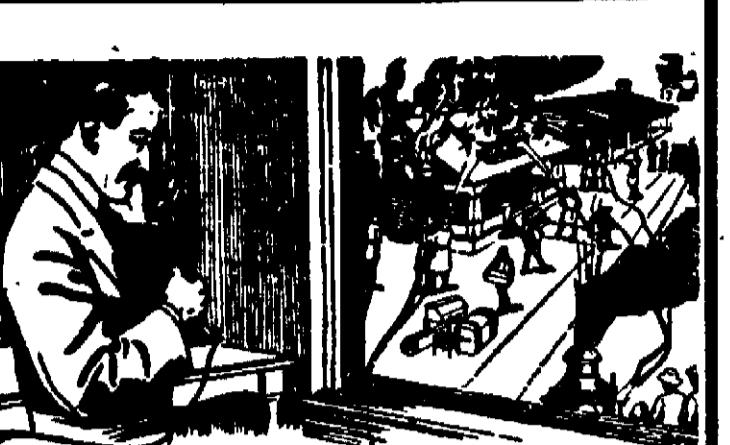

ATLANTA, June 11.—Atlanta Elks are making elaborate arrangements to entertain the grand lodge of the order which meets here July 9-16. Local Elk leaders say they expect representation from a large majority of the 1,300 lodges forming the organization in the United States. At least 75,000 visitors are expected.

In order to house the influx, the grounds and buildings of the Southeastern Fair will be converted into a tourist camp. Two Pullman cities will be established, where visitors can be cared for in these hotels on wheels, while other spaces will be set aside for auto tourists, who desire to camp.

WHAT'S YOUR HEALTH WORTH?

Supposing someone should suddenly appear before you and say, "I'll give you every happiness on Earth, if, in return you will give me your health." Would you make the bargain? No, you bet you wouldn't. Your health is the most valued thing you own. Yet, are you keeping that priceless? Or, are you letting your physical condition hit the toboggan. Your intestines should be kept clean and your liver alive by drinking plenty of water. Then get a shower if possible and get the BATH A DAY HABIT. This may seem like a lot of work. But if you can afford to lose your health you can afford to keep it. You won't sell it—so use it yourself. If you haven't the necessary fixtures to follow our suggestions call on us. Famous Mexican Is A Voluntary Exile

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—An crowned king in exile is spending the summer here. He is General Luis Terrazas, now in his 94th year, who once owned and ruled 8,000,000 acres in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico.

The old general and his family were driven from Mexico 10 years ago, after the Madero revolution. In 1911 Pancho Villa captured his son, Luis Terrazas, Jr., and held him for $50,000 ransom.

The general could not raise the money, but his friends did, and Luis was released only to die at Los Angeles shortly afterward, as a result of ill-treatment at the hands of bandits.

Further misfortunes have overtaken the old general, but recently he turned for the $1800 a month pension offered by the Mexican government.

The "grand old man in Chihuahua" is still living in voluntary exile in the United States. He is surly or will by most of his relatives, but the Model nearly 100, and in this small town he still remains an uncrowned home among his people.

Dr. Grafenberg reveals that the chief constituent of this new "twilight sleep" is "chloralose" (methyl chloride), but the other ingredients are kept secret. The drug, he says, produces no ill effects on either mother or child.

TIME BAD MAN

A bold, bad man made a general display of himself in a Texas town a few days ago. It seems that he'd imbibed a sufficient number of drinks to become anxious to impress the town with his boldness, and when the officers tried to arrest him he backed up against the side of a building and defied arrest.

A considerable crowd of citizens, among whom were a number of drummers from a hotel close by, had gathered to witness the scene.

The bad man was a big, ferocious-looking fellow with long, curling hair that fell on his shoulders, a broad-brimmed hat, a buckskin coat with fringe around the bottom and a picturesque vocabulary. He was flourishing a big six-shooter and swore by the bones of Davy Crockett, that he would perforate the man who attempted to capture him.

The city marshal stood in the middle of the street and tried to reason with him, but the bad man gave a whoop and ran up on his toes, and the whole crowd fell back to the other side of the street. The police had a conference, but none of them would volunteer to lead the attack.

Presently a little, wizened, consumptive-looking drummer for a Connecticut shoe factory squeezed his way through the crowd on the opposite side of the street to have a peep at the desperado. He weighed about 90 pounds and wore double-glass spectacles. Just then the desperado gave another whoop and yelled:

"God damn ye, why don't some of you come and take me? I'll eat any five of you without chawin', and I ain't hungry either—woopee!"

The crowd fell back a few yards farther and the police turned pale again, but the skinny little man adjusted his spectacles with both hands, and stepped onto the edge of the sidewalk and took a good look at the bad man. Then he deliberately struck across the street at a funny hopping kind of a run right up to where the terror stood.

The crowd yelled at him to come back, and the desperado flourished his six-shooter again, but the little man went straight up to him and said something. The crowd shuddered and expected to see him fall with a .45 bullet in his brain, but he didn't. They saw the desperado lower his pistol and run his hand in his pocket and hand something to the little man.

Then the desperado walked sheepishly down the sidewalk, and the little man came back across the street.

"Bad man?" he said. "I guess not. He wouldn't hurt a fly. That's Zeke Skinner. He was raised on the farm next to me in Connecticut. He's selling some kind of fake liver medicine, and that's his street rice he's got on now. I loaned him eight dollars in Hartford nine years ago, and never expected to see him again. Thought I knew his voice, pay? I reckon he paid me. I calculate I always collect what's owing to me."

Then the crowd scattered and the twelve policemen headed Zeke off at the next corner and clubbed him all the way to the station house.

YOU AND I

TROTSKY

Lieb Brunnstein, better known as Leon Trotsky, writes the story of his life. He became a radical when he was 16. In all he spent about five years in Russian prisons. He adopted the name of Trotsky, forging it on a passport to escape from Siberian penal colony.

Trotsky will be only 44 years old on his next birthday, Oct. 26. He has been the dynamic of the Bolsheviks, Lenin the brains. The moral to be drawn from their lives cannot be written until the daises grow above them. Trotsky is a hyperthyroid personally. That's shown by his hair, a day's job for any barter.

EMERGENCY

How do you act in emergency? Go to pieces or simply throw your clutch into high and speed ahead?

Dr. Frank McGowan, New York surgeon, breaks his right arm when a touring car smashes into the ambulance in which he is rushing to an emergency case. What would you have done? Turned the job over to another doctor? Not McGowan. He and his assistant set his arm, bandaged it in splints. Inside 10 minutes the ambulance clangs ahead. McGowan apologizing to his patient for arriving late.

Interesting sample of how we can master crucial problems if we don't throw the sponge and quit.

HUM

Dry leaders in London believe that Uncle Sam is checking liquor smuggling, because British exports of coal during the war were only stepped up in April. The figure was 221,000 gallons.

On the American check-up problem they will never find high officials of prime belief did the same damage dry there any longer.

John F. Hylan is mayor of the City of New York. He is serving his fifth year. He has three years to serve. The New York legislature increased his salary from $12,000 to $25,000 a year. Hylan never wavered. He never ran up the white feather, he never once exhibited the yellow badge of political cowardice. He signed the bill. All local measures which affect the city of New York are sent from Albany to New York for the approval or disapproval of the mayor of that city.

Hylan is an unique character. He was born on a farm. He made his way from the farm to the cab on an engine and became a driver. Then he studied law and was admitted to the bar. Then he jumped into politics and became a judge. Five years ago he defeated John Purroy Mitchell for the office of mayor of New York.

Most of the New York newspapers said that Mitchell was the best mayor New York ever had. New York editors poked fun at him. Some of them called him "Red Mike." Others said he was a rank demagogue. Nearing the close of his first term they pitted against Hylan another intellectual, Henry K. Curran.

Curran is a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post. He writes articles telling the people how to vote and then they will be happy and prosperous ever afterward. Hylan defeated Curran by three or four hundred thousand majority. It was almost a complete sweep for the former farm hand and engine driver.

Then the New York legislature advanced his salary to $25,000 a year in order to place Hylan in a hole. They knew he had to veto the bill or accept the advance. Hylan crawled out of the hole. He said he was poor man, that he had made many sacrifices for the people, that he intended to sign the bill in order that Mrs. Hylan would have a few dollars at her command if anything happened to him.

This makes the office of mayor the best paying job in the state of New York. A governor of New York only takes down $12,000 a year; a supreme court justice $17,500 a year, and a senator or congressman $7,500 a year.

There is never a day that Mayor Hylan fails to break into print. There is never a day that he isn't pictured in the newspapers of Gotham. There is never a day that his hide isn't tanned artistically by some of the pungent writers of the Gotham press.

But why should Hylan worry? He jumped from a farm to an engine cab. He jumped from a cab to a place on the bench. He jumped from a place on the bench to the office of mayor of the greatest city of the world where in days long gone Father Knickerbocker wielded the sceptre of power.

He defeated "the best mayor New York ever had." He defeated many of the great newspapers of New York bent upon throwing him into the discard. He defeated a proud intellectual who is a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post. He attends national conferences of farm blockers who are lawyers and economists who are politicians.

Now he has approved a bill that advanced his salary from $12,000 to $25,000 a year because Mrs. Hylan may need the money when he is gone. Texans pay their governor $4,000 a year, cheer him when he is inaugurated and then cuss him later on. Mayor Hylan takes down $25,000 a year and when his political or personal enemies cuss him he cusses back.

Hylan never turns the other cheek. He admits that the plutocrats are all against him; that the proletarians are all for him and the ninety and nine are proletarians, why should Hylan worry?

COPELAND AND THE COURT

United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York asserts that Americans are living in fool's paradise; that what the world needs is work; that it needs to restore peace; to obliterate the scars of the great war; to wipe out hatred; to calm the fears and agitation of the world's mind.

Senator Copeland is a physician. This is his prescription: An immediate business and economic conference to include all nations and from which would be barred all political differences and intrigue.

Impossible. No conference of the like has ever taken place; no conference of the like will ever take place. Human nature is just the same today as it was thousands of years ago.

Individuals are selfish; nations are selfish. Woodrow Wilson gave to the world his plea for universal justice and he submitted for ratification by the senate the League of Nations and its covenant. Politics murdered the Wilson creation.

Sordid greed was in evidence. Hatred was in evidence. Intrigue was in evidence. Having rejected the substance, now the politicians offer the people the shadow.

25,000 YEARS AGO

The Stone Age people who lived in Great Britain 25,000 years ago were physically and mentally superior to the average European of 1923.

So claims the eminent authority on anthropology, Prof. Elliot Smith of England.

Smith o. k.'s, as accurate, Mackenzie's book, "Ancient Man in Britain." This book, which is creating a sensation in England, gives this description of the Britons of 250 centuries ago.

"In all essential features they were of modern type. They could, dressed in modern attire, pass through the streets of any modern city without particular notice being taken of them. One branch was particularly tall and handsome, with an average height for the males of 6 feet 1 1/2 inches."

The people who inhabited Britain 25,000 years ago suffered from many of the physical complaints that are common today.

"There is evidence in skeletons of the effects of rheumatism and of bad teeth," says Prof. Smith.

Those ancients were clever surgeons. They were skilled at performing the delicate operation, trepanning the skull to relieve the brain from pressure or irritation. Skulls, which have been dug up, reveal this clearly and unmistakably.

Similar operations, by the way, were performed by the Aztecs who had a highly developed civilization on the American continent, until the plundering Spanish explorers destroyed it.

The late Prof. Camden M. Colburn, who uncovered the cities which the Israelites built of sun-dried brick before they fled Egypt, had the greatest surprise of his life in India.

There Colburn saw an ancient document in which scientist of 6000 years ago told how he had discovered and isolated something like 38 different kinds of throat bacilli (disease bacteria).

Link this fact with Prof. Smith's revelations about the Britons of 25,000 years ago, and it rather takes the starch out of our vanity.

How long will it be until exploring scientists of the future dig deep into the earth and uncover remnants of the civilization we have today—for instance, right here in Port Arthur?

Henry Ford has two planks of his platform ready. These are his words: "As far as national problems go the two big problems at this time are the railroads and the judiciary." How far is he willing to go?

Long Distance Telephone Conversation Between Karl Whaley and Leslie Prescott.

"This is Whaley, Leslie?"

"Yes, who is it speaking?"

"It is Karl."

"Oh, hello, Karl. I didn't recognize your voice."

"Your mother wished to call you up and say that they are starting one day earlier and if it were possible, she would like you to come down tomorrow instead of the day after."

"I think I can do that. Are you coming with them, Karl?"

"Yes, I have some business that must be transacted within the next week or two and I thought I might as well do it at this time, particularly as Alice makes such an important matter of my going to see her off."

"Don't you think, Karl, that you are allowing Alice to monopolize a good deal of your time? You know she is but a child and she is apt to get crushed as all children do at some time in their young lives."

"Thank you, dear Leslie, for the compliment, but honestly I don't think you realize what a level-headed little trump Alice is."

"I haven't the slightest idea that an old fellow like me would appeal to her in any way except as a counselor and friend. I do not think she would even accept me as a guide. Her original viewpoint and her freshness of expression amuses me greatly."

"Then you will tell mother that I'll be there," interrupts Leslie, abrantly ringing off.

"IT SURE PAYS"

The first batch of Coca-Cola was put on the market back in 1886—only 25 gallons of syrup, which sold for $25. The Wall Street Journal comments that "the present company paid the original owners 20 million dollars for Coca-Cola goodwill."

"Goodwill" is another word for reputation.

Reputation, in modern business, is the direct result of three things—merit of product, methods of doing business, and advertising.

Coca-Cola, of course, has been about as thoroughly advertised as is humanly possible.

The $25, realized from the first Coca-Cola sale, was immediately invested in advertising, for which the first bill was $46. From that small seed grew 20 million dollars worth of "goodwill."

It pays to advertise.

Most of the big advertisers started in a small way. Venturing cautiously into the water, they soon struck out for the deep spots. They found that it pays to advertise.

The William Wrigley Company's first advertising appropriation was $32—it's entire capital—writes John Allen Murphy in Printer's Ink Magazine. The L. E. Waterman Company's first ad bill was only $62.50. Hupp Motor Corporation started with $100.65 of publicity. The Borden Company started with an advertising appropriation of $513.75, back in 1890; today it spends for advertising nearly a million dollars a year. So on, a long list.

It pays to advertise.

Murphy tells the story of Royal baking powder. The company started in a small drug store in Ft. Wayne, Ind., as a side line. Its first advertisement appeared in local papers. The campaign then gradually spread throughout the state, until the company was able to move to New York. Soon after that, it became the largest national advertiser of its day. The Mennen Company started similarly—as a druggist's side line.

What fertilizer is to farm soil, advertising is to business. It makes the seed grow, the acorn into a giant oak.

"It pays to advertise" is the best slogan to hang over the sales manager's desk.WIFE WANTED

Women who advertise for husbands, 238. Men advertising for wives, 68. That's how the ads run in a recent issue of the largest matrimonial paper published.

It's not difficult to understand why the women outnumber the men three and a half to one. Women are handicapped by convention. They are the sit-back-and-waiters. Men, unrestrained, are the go-getters. (Theoretically, at any rate.)

A man who would take unto himself a wife can look them over and arrange an introduction—if one is necessary. But a woman can't walk up to a man, object matrimony.

Women who advertise in the papers published by matrimonial bureaus naturally "talk up" their charms as selling points—facial beauty, form, disposition, popularity, sympathetic instinct.

The men, in their ads, do their heavy talking about the money they have and their prospects. In short, their ability to be a good provider."

It's the old cave-man system: "Come with me, fair damsel, I have a rain-proof cave—a nice warm fire, and I can fetch in plenty of meat and lick all comers."

Here's a typical ad by a man seeking a mate, the advertiser's address somewhere in New Jersey:

"Girls, I'm looking for a nice, clean, thrifty little wife. Am an American, ex-soldier, age 32, height 6 feet, weight 160, dark hair and eyes, pleasing appearance, good character, healthy, never married. Have money and city property to the value of $20,000. Prefer maidens, age 18 to 32; no widows or big blonds."

Another advertiser tells applicants to enclose church or bank references. As a special inducement, to ensure his having a wide selection, he promises: "$50 gold slug for best letter, $20 gold for next and $10 for third." This businesslike gent hails from Nevada.

Few of the male advertisers seem to think they are exceptionally handsome. Or if they do, they play safe by reserving that talking point for the clinching argument later. Only one in 20 publishes his picture.

Curiously enough, most of these lonesome males announce that they are broad-minded, generous disposition, or "deep-thinkers"—whatever that means.

Is all this typical of the average man seeking a mate? Does it reveal the masculine qualities or traits that men think are most enticing to the fair sex?

HYPNOTIZED

You have seen hypnotists on the stage. Scientists are giving them increasing attention. The other day in England, Dr. S. K. Wilson appeared before a society for psychical research and performed this interesting experiment:

Wilson hypnotized a man, then told him that the carpet was a magic one and would carry him to King Tut's tomb in Egypt. The man under the hypnotic spell was highly pleased. He swayed back and forth as though the imaginary trip through the air were rough.

When told that the carpet had come to earth, the man stepped out, scooped up imaginary sand and exclaimed with delight. Then he went through all the motions of thoroughly inspecting Tut's tomb.

His imaginary trip probably was as good as the real thing, except that he had no recollection of it when roused from the hypnotic state.

Hypnotism, far from being a force used only occasionally on the stage and in scientific investigations, is employed daily in the lives of all of us.

The attraction that generates love is hypnotic.

The oily salesman who can induce people to buy what they really neither need nor want is an out-and-out hypnotist.

Political leaders who attract large followings have the hypnotic power highly developed in them.

The Cone craze emphasized that most of us can hypnotize ourselves. Call it power of imagination if you want to, but in the last analysis it is old-fashioned self-hypnosis.

You know people who have an obsession—"bugs" on one subject—usually something they think is a cure-all or the kingpin of evils. Hypnotic condition.

For that matter, we have ourselves hypnotized when we day-dream. Or when we read a book or watch a movie and imagine that we are the admirable characters portrayed.

All mass movements of the public involve an element of hypnotism. It's one of the great mysteries, is hypnotism. No one can explain it except in generalities.

On the other hand, Pittsburgh has the highest spontaneous rate of the lung diseases—tuberculosis, diphtheria, etc.—than any other city in the country. This led Dr. William P. Nelson to study the relation between smoke (carbon dust) and health of the lungs. The result is Dr. Nelson's new method of combatting tuberculosis by keeping pure carbon and carbon dioxide.

Pittsburgh, the "smoky city," has an extraordinary low tuberculosis death rate. This led Dr. William P. Nelson to study the relation between smoke (carbon dust) and health of the lungs. The result is Dr. Nelson's new method of combatting tuberculosis by keeping pure carbon and carbon dioxide.

A Paris cablegram carries the news that France is face to face with its old problem—the lack of children to take the place of those who are dying off. It is different elsewhere. Last year Germany reported an excess of 200,000 births over deaths; Italy reported 460,000; England, 200,000; in France the birth rate continued higher than the birth rate.

THE PORT ARTHUR NEWSSMART GOWNS FOR EVENING WEAR DURING MID-SUMMER ARE ELABORATELY BEADED

In spite of the prediction for simpler effects in evening gowns, the newer frocks being shown are again being elaborately beaded. Pastel shades of chiffon and georgette are beaded in crystal beads and dull gold and silver beads.

At present one sees no special color as a summer favorite for evening wear, but orchid; shell pink, yellow lantana green, and orange tones are vying with one another for prestige. White, of course, will be as popular as it was last summer, leading all other shades. Very few real brilliant colors are seen.

Necklines are leaving the batwing shapes for the lower decolletage which is rounding. The shoulder-strap effect, however, is seen only on older women. Skirts for evening wear are about seven inches from the floor, except for the very full dance frock, which is about ten inches.

For evening wear, chiffon draped turbans are popular with the semi-fitting gown. Large hats are seldom seen where there is dancing.

Though the headed dresses are popular for evening wear, the banded frock is being displaced by the smart embroidered, frock for street wear.

One sees numerous dark gowns embroidered in vivid colors.

Long necklaces of colored beads wrapped once about the neck and extending in a long chain with a tassel end are important accessories for the evening frock.

Bright colored shoes are worn only for sport wear or for evening wear by smartly dressed women. They are not a street shoe.

Colored ribbon stitched on material before it is accordion pleated looks as though it were embroidered into the material. It makes a lively trimming for the skirt of a dressy frock.

Satinwood is one of the newest colors for the evening frock and is especially beautiful when beaded in broche heads and worn over an orange silk.

"Mr. Mole," he said sternly. "I want you to know that you've ruined Mrs. Brown's lawn."

Nancy hurried down the steps with cuffs—up the lawn is steps of Rags Land looking as if hills about two inches high that cross-and-up and down and round in circles and every way, is simply ruined."

Mister Tatters went up the steps that led from Rags Land to the outside world. Then he straight to Mrs. Brown's front door and there, just as Nancy had left the lawn in lumpy ruins, "Um, hm!" nodded Mister Tatters nicely. "I see—or?"

Then he went back to Rags Land and down the magic steps.

Then he walked a distance ground till he came to a queer place? Then he walked in without

"Mr. Mole," he said sternly. "I want you to know that you've ruined Mrs. Brown's lawn. It's this time. But if you do it again, I'll fix you! Good day, sir. Remember what I say."

Opens Door of Moving Elevator, Falls to Death

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 11.—Mrs. Anne Hardesty, 55 years old, was killed here when she opened the door of a moving elevator cage in an office building and stepped out, fell from the first floor to the basement, a distance of 11 feet. Her neck was broken by the fall.

The elevator had just started upward, according to Miss Matilda Green, the pilot, when Mrs. Hardesty clutched the handle which released the door, exclaiming: "This isn't the building."

"Don't do that; don't touch it!" Miss Green cried.

Unheeding, Mrs. Hardesty opened the door. Stepping out, she fell under the cage, striking on her head on the concrete floor of the basement below. Physicians say death was instantaneous.

7-YEAR-OLD FROG UNABLE TO SWIM

SALOMON, Ariz., June 11.—"she danced," is the way Dick Hall, "gasoline man, philosopher, entire population of Salomon, ex-husband of his town got its name."

Dick Wick Hall is the editor of the mimeographed "Salomon Sun."

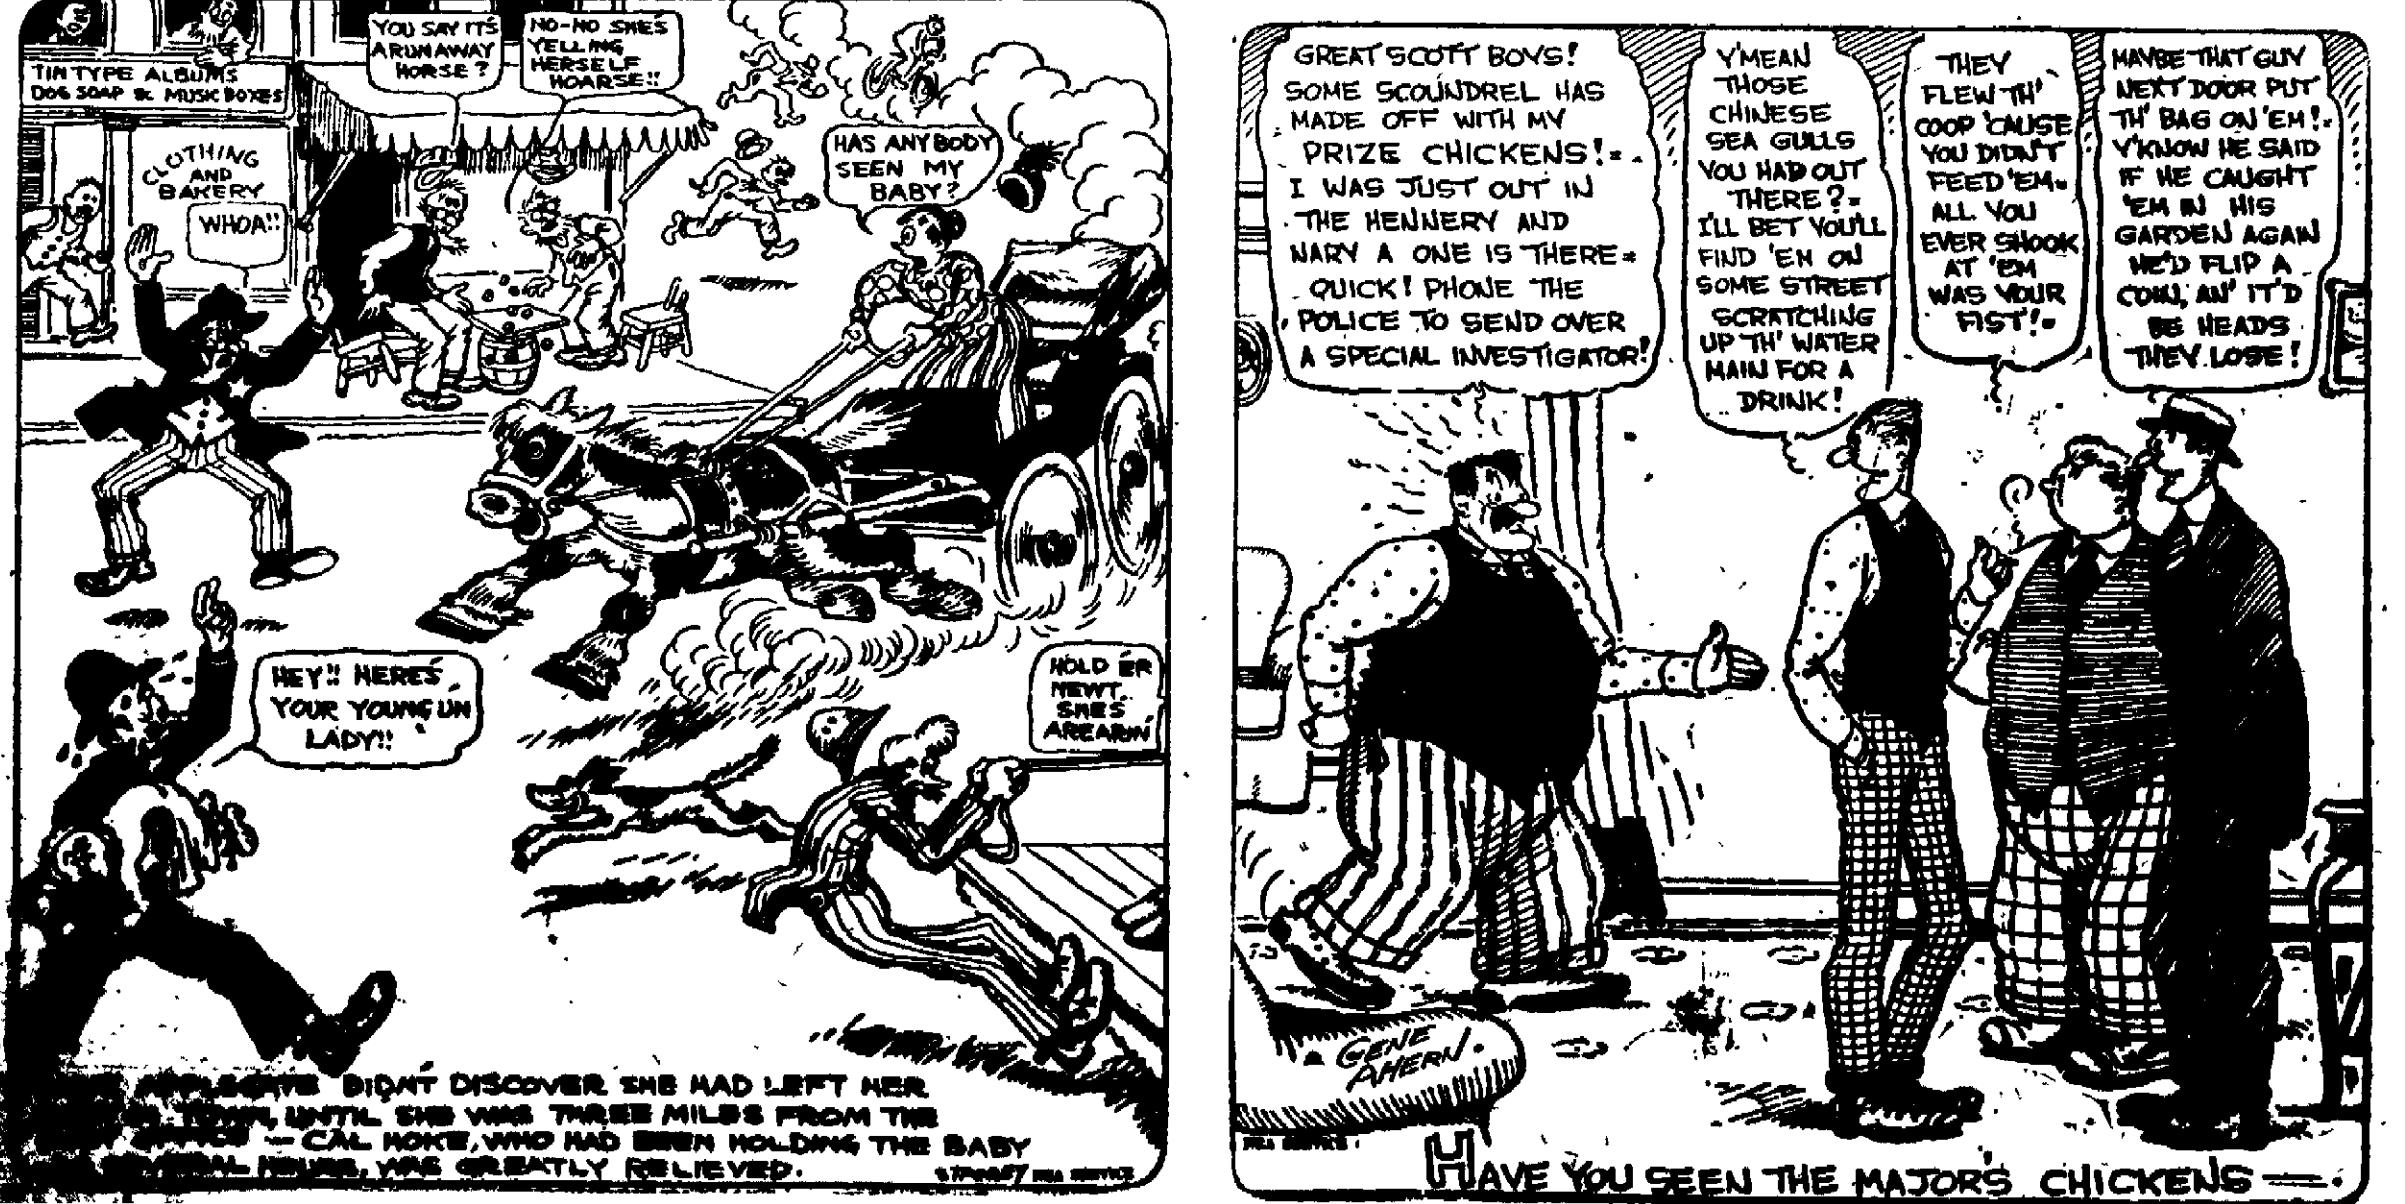

The "Salomon Sun" contains the news about Hall's celebrated desert frog—the waterless frog of desert.

"Seven years old, and though can't swim yet, it isn't his fault the way Hall describes his frog: never had a chance but he lives."

Three years ago Fourth of Palos Verde Pete set off a big dynamite, and the frog, thinking was thunder, chased the cloud smoke 10 miles down the road, leaving it might rain."

Hall uses the frog as a cloud his quiet desert philosophy.

WIFE BALKS' MAID

Girl Sued for $25,000 as Heart Balm

TONKAWA, N. Y., June 6.—Elizabeth Frances Thorne, Smith college graduate, sister in the family of Rockwood, renowned Russian pianist, is not going to get $25,000 in $200 installments for the next five years from Wm. Lapham Saunders, banker, entrepreneur and T. M. C. A. director of Teachers, if the determined, forcing wife of the millionaire and mother of his five children can prevent it.

Smiling half in scorn and half in pity, Mrs. Saunders faced the young woman who has confessed that for six years she shared the affections of Saunders and obviously enjoyed Miss Thorne's embarrassment. The appearance of Mrs. Saunders on the side of her husband when Supreme Court Justice Young resumed proceedings at Oswego courthouse, was a surprise.

The banker's wife, a matronly woman, a dozen or more years Miss Thorne's senior, listened intently while the former instructress of her children described a "love contract" she and Saunders entered into on May 14, 1921, by which she was to receive $25,000.

His blue eyes blinking nervously, the Yonkers philanthropist flushed and moved in his seat most uncomfortably as Mrs. Saunders vouchsafed him with what was meant as reassuring gestures.

Mrs. Saunders became aware of the affair accidentally while going through a bank book of her husband, questioned him and he finally made a clean breast of it. When Miss Thorne threatened to bring suit, Mrs. Saunders refused to permit her husband to settle the case quietly. The banker signed the contract with Miss Thorne, he declared, when she threatened to expose him to his aged mother.

'Love Parlors' in Church Are Urged as Vice Cure By Aroused Chicagoans

CHICAGO, June 6.—Chief of Police Collins' denunciation of former vice conditions in the back yard of the "Gold Coast," a social worker's charge that hundreds of Illinois high school girls left the classroom last year for the maternity hospital, and a doctor's plea for "love parlors" in churches, featured a mass meeting of the Illinois Vigilance society here last night.

The vice district just back of the "Gold Coast" residences is due, he explained, largely to the number of young men and women from out of town living in small hotels and cheap rooming houses.

Declaring that the average age of the illegitimate mother had decreased within the last few years from 20 to 16, Mrs. B. Corwin Howell told that in many cases the freshman high school girl of 13 was expelled from school because she was about to become a mother.

"Our girls are now being taught by bad movies by bad literature and by dance halls that immorality is universal. They are told that sex indiscretion is 'normal'." At first they are shocked. Pretty soon they begin to want to be "normal."

Dr. Lee Alexander Stone made a plea for "love parlors" in churches or civic centers.

"The working girl, with a cheap hotel bedroom," he said, "has no place in which to entertain her sweethearts. Every street corner in Chicago is made into a parlor. Every dance hall is a parlor. And too often the cheap hotel is made a parlor."

Stuffed Dummies Used By Convicts in Escape

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 6.—Dummies, made of stuffed underwear aided Phillip Salanardi and Casimer Wilwos, long termers, in their escape from the Marquette branch prison late yesterday. The decoys were filled with bed clothing and rags picked up by the men. Guards, in making a check of men, reported that the convicts were in their cells at 4 o'clock.

The convicts, with other inmates, had been given permission to obtain a shave and haircut and the check was made afterwards. Shortly after 4, a group of about 25 civilian workmen, who on other occasions have been checked out at the several gates, climbed the prison wall. Whether the fugitives were in the party of workmen is a question, still unanswered by prison officials. Some believe they escaped in this manner.

Prison industries are again closed down, the second time within a month, guards being used in search of the vicinity for the men. Each day the various factories are closed costs the state about $500.

SHIRLEY POPPY WAS DEVELOPED BY VICAR

LONDON, June 6.—The Rev. William Wilkes, for a long time vicar of Shirley, England, died recently. He was a faithful minister of religion but the world will remember him as the man who gave it a new and lovely flower.

It was in 1880 that Mr. Wilkes found in his garden a white-edged variety of the common Shirley poppy. He saved and planted the seed. Only a few plants produced the white-edged flowers, but those he carefully bred. The stock showed remarkable power of variation, and after a number of years the crimson-blushes had produced not only white-edged poppies, but pure white, yellow, pale pink and many others with golden centers instead of the black center of the original field poppy.

These interesting and lovely flowers and called Shirley poppies, free of price of their origin.

TRACE VENTURES OF FUR TRADERS

Wisconsin Man Seeks History of Early Explorers

ASHLAND, Wis., June 6.—An accurate history of the adventures of Pierre Radisson and Sieur des Groseilliers, those hardy Frenchmen who came to Wisconsin in 1659 and established trading posts where furs were bought from the Indians, is being prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of Ashland and will be published this summer.

The facts for the history are being provided by Father Louis Charbonneau, Nash, near here, who has spent six years studying original French papers and documents and who has found a number of mistakes in what was previously regarded as authentic history.

Radisson was the first white man to build a house in Wisconsin, having settled on Chequamegon bay, near Nash. Radisson was fond of adventure and not religiously inclined, like Marquette and Allouez, who came later. Fur trading occupied his attention chiefly.

Father Allouez came to Chequamegon bay in 1665 when he built the first chapel erected in the state and four years later Father Marquette passed through on his tour of exploration. It has been generally believed that Marquette first settled on Madeline island, but Father Charbonneau's investigations disclose, he says, that Marquette settled on the mainland. That was in 1669, four years before Marquette discovered the Mississippi, the two hundred fiftieth anniversary of which is to be celebrated at Prairie du Chien this month.

The history is being edited by E. E. Meadly, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and his assistant, Seegren Swanson. Inasmuch as it was only four or five miles from Ashland that the first white man settled, the Chamber of Commerce here has taken upon itself the task of collecting all the facts, so that accurate state history may be preserved.

GIVES LIFE'S BLOOD FOR HER ALMA MATER

NEW YORK, June 6.—Miss Grace Newman of Brooklyn, Adelphi graduate, gave her life's blood as part of her pledged contribution toward the school's $300,000 building and endowment fund.

The blood—a pint and a half—was sold for $50 by Miss Newman to the post graduate hospital in a transfusion operation.

When the campaign for funds began Miss Newman pledged herself to raise $312.

"I'd think of no easier way to earn $50," she smiled. "We Adelphi girls all mean to do all we can. Honestly, I'm talking about it is much harder than the operation itself."

DEAF BOY PRODIGY IS IN HIGH SCHOOL

IRONWOOD, Mich., June 6.—Totally deaf since birth, Chester Gorski II, has already completed nine years of school work, and during the term just ended he carried a full course in high school and did satisfactory work in every subject.

Instructors at the high school say that while deaf students frequently fall behind the rest of the class through high school and sometimes complete college courses, it is almost unheard of for a deaf student to be as far advanced as this boy is at his age.

Itty Broker Killed Before Body Placed Under Train, Claim

SAN ANTONIO, June 6.—The jury will examine the body of Guy A. Moore today to determine how the wealthy banker met his death.

His body was found on the Mil-

According to Dr. H. E. Moss, deputy coroner, a preliminary autopsy indicated the grain broker was dead before his body was run over by a train.

Police continued search for a tramp who was seen wandering along the tracks at approximately the same time that Moore is believed to have been in the vicinity.

Man is Fully Conscious Surgeons Drill in Skull

Brain Tumor Causing Epilepsy and Anesthesia is Removed While He Feeds Knife in Brain

NEWARK, N. J., June 6.—Matty A. Brown, son of a small furniture business, regards himself as a man who has come back from the grave. He had a residence with death, but today he is physically well and ready to start life over again.

Brown was placed on an operating table in Beth Israel Hospital, New York, Feb. 27. For two hours he lay fully conscious while surgeons bored holes in his skull, joined them, sliced out a section, and then by cutting into his brain removed a tumor four inches long, two inches wide, and three-fourths of an inch thick. And today he is pondering on ways and means of economic independence for his family and himself.

Brown was admitted to the hospital Feb. 11. He had lost his memory and was tortured with headaches so painful they were almost insufferable. Epilepsy attacked him occasionally, also. He was partially paralyzed and his general physical condition was such that surgeons who made the examination decided that general anesthesia would be fatal. Nevertheless they continued their efforts to save his life.

Only One Chance

To locate the tumor a ventricular puncture was made Feb. 25, cerebral fluid was removed and air injected, after which X-ray photographs were taken. Then Brown was told that he had one chance—the tumor could be removed by means of a local anesthetic.

"I knew I was going to die anyway," said Brown at his home here. "In fact, I was more of a dead man than a live one, anyway. With the pain I had been suffering death did not seem to be so awful, and nothing they could do with knives would be worse than I had already suffered. Besides, there was my family to consider. A half paralyzed man who had fits and who forgot his own name at times was not much use. Dead, we would be rid of supporting me. So I told them to go ahead."

"I was conscious all the time and knew that they were drilling into my head and cutting into my brain. The doctors kept asking me how I felt and generally I told them I was all right. Sometimes it hurt a little and I told them about that. It was there on the table, and at the same time I was far away. But I feel all right now, and that is the main thing."

Everything was ready for the difficult and delicate operation, with a human life as a possible forfeit, by 9 a. m. An incision was made just back of the left temple. Holes were then made in the skull bone. These were connected, and the bone and overlaying structures turned back. The dura, or covering of the brain, was then cut into, this exposing the tumor.

Knife in the Brain

With the greatest care the knife was inserted into the brain itself. Moments sped away as Dr. K. Winfield Ney, assisted by Dr. Emil Altman, attending neurologist of the hospital, and Dr. Bernard Davoff, the house surgeon, worked. Finally the tumor, described as "of the benign type and self-contained," was removed. Then the osteoplastic flap was turned back and the scalp sutured.

It was found necessary to sacrifice the anterior portion of the frontal lobe of the brain, but this has not affected Brown's faculties.

Now Brown's memory is as clear as ever, his headaches trouble him no longer, he has full use of his limbs and the epilepsy has vanished. March 26 he left the hospital to spend a convalescent period at the Burke foundation at White Plains. April 6 he left there for the home of relatives in Brooklyn, where he remained for only a few days, as his recovery was so rapid he was allowed to return to his home here.

The success of the operation and the complete recovery of the patient is held all the more remarkable because of the size and the growth that was removed. The brain tumor that caused the death last year of Henry P. Davidson, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., was only about the size of a hazelnut when the first operation was performed.

Not Often Attempted

Dr. Frederick Tilney, who has handled several such cases, said that the use of a local anesthetic for the removal of a brain tumor was not unheard of, but that it was generally frowned on by the medical profession because of the great danger in leaving the patient conscious. He said that such an operation should not be attempted unless the patient was too weak to stand a general anesthetic.

"Several well known surgeons in this city have performed operations for the removal of brain tumors with the patient under local anesthetic," said Dr. Tilney. "During the war, many operations were performed on soldiers for the removal of shrapnel or bullets that had become embedded in the brain, but in general surgeons still look with disfavor on the use of only local anesthetic in such cases."

More Dances in Churches! Schools, Too, Should Invite the Youth of City, Says Woman Leader

By JOHN GALT
SEATTLE, June 5.—Let us have dancing in schools and churches to spread the morals of the young.

The pleasure-seeking children have their fill of excitement and entertainment—but in an environment of good.

Open the church and the school as community houses for wholesome recreation and amusement and, by so doing, eliminate the false lure of the public hall downtown.

Such is the plan being advocated here by Mrs. Henry Landes as a means of protecting unsophisticated youth during the years when longing for companionship and entertainment is strongest. Mrs. Landes is a member of the Seattle city council and president of the Seattle Women's Circle League. The plan she proposes is not only for Seattle but all other cities as well.

Ready for Use

"Churches, being places of worship, quite naturally should not become centers of indiscriminate revelry," Mrs. Landes declares. "But they should stand ready at all times to offer their facilities for the pleasure of their young folk."

If this is done, she believes, the youngsters will not find it necessary to patronize the dance hall, where there is no chaperone or restraint, and where too often the bootlegger and the drug vendor ply their trade.

"Our young people have the right to wholesome recreation in their leisure hours and the development of their play instinct is the responsibility of every community," says Mrs. Landes. "If we shirk this responsibility, it will come back on our shoulders and we will pay the penalty in the end."

Wholesome Atmosphere
"Churches and schools should be used to their full capacity for the benefit of the community. Dancing in such an atmosphere will save our young folk from the miasma of the downtown dance hall. It is not necessary to advocate dancing in churches as a wholesome practice, but I believe the church should be available as a place where the young can seek innocent diversion."

"The churches should be glad to co-operate in the movement and I am sure they will."

"There is always room for great improvement in the juvenile life of the cities and I feel sure that provision of adequate and controlled places of amusement will do much in effecting that improvement."

Third Party' Flies Are Bothering Tyler Cattle

TYLER, Texas, June 6.—East Texas dairy farmers and dairymen report that the horned or "third party" fly is making ravages on cattle in this section. This fly is about half the size of a large house fly and its wingspread is much wider than the house fly. It came soon after the buffalo gnats, which disappeared when the warm weather set in.

The name of this fly was given when it made its first appearance in the year and the third party was organized. Dairymen are forced to spray cows and report a great falling off in milk on account of the fly.

"They used to rant against the practice of caressing the female form divine in a corset. But as soon as they found girls were leaving it on the closet shelf, that made material for a fresh assault against women's morals."

Mr. Hughes doesn't think the work is growing worse by any means—just running true to form and repeating its journey back and forth like the pendulum, always in the same area.

The one great improvement he sees is that women are becoming self-supporting and releasing themselves from the class of slaves and dependents.

"This generation will see the passing of alimony—the greatest insult ever paid to women," he concluded. "Women will come to the front in politics and public life. I do not expect them to purify politics or revolutionize the world, but they needed the vote as an added interest in life."

ORANGE PLANK ROAD COMPANY NO MORE

ORANGE, Texas, June 6.—The Orange Plank Road Company, by whom the longest plank road in the world, leading to an oil field, was built as an emergency to take care of the traffic to the Grange field, has been dissolved. The materials were sold to S. M. White and to Orange county and the road is now being taken up.

This is done because the county has built a direct route to the field. A good portion of the way is concrete and the balance shell and gravel surfacing. The total cost of the plank road was about $80,000.

$540 a Month Income, Yet Steals 17 Cents

CHICAGO, June 6.—Although, according to his own statement, he owned a flat building which brought him $340 a month, John H. Smith found the temptation of 17 cents too strong for him. Thursday he was charged with stealing the money from the news stand of Charles Cardin, 31. Judge Peter Schwabke fined him $200 and costs.

MERICAS HOLD SOCIAL CONFAB

Didn't Mean Anything Says Stewart

By CHARLES P. STEWART
WASHINGTON, June 6.—The American Conference at Santiago, Chile, recently passed off very pleasantly.

Which means that it didn't accomplish anything.

It wouldn't have been so pleasant if the Latin American delegates had said what they thought.

Their newspapers are saying it now. According to "La Prensa" of Buenos Aires, leading Latin Americanists, the most important proposition in the conference program was formation of a "league of American nations." The second in importance was armament limitation.

The league was Uruguay's scheme, but North American delegates sensed all the others were against it and sat on the suggestion before it had been more than barely mentioned.

The United States was back of the armament limitation plan.

Misinformed

In proposing it, says "La Prensa," the United States committed a mistake which was one more result of the lack of reliable information concerning events in this part of the American continent.

In fact, "La Prensa" asserts, the U.S. advocacy, by the United States, Argentine participation in a plan to limit the latter's military strength, at the same time that American officers are helping Brazil to strengthen her navy, "must result in influencing both these countries to encourage militarism and to endanger peace."

Argentina is the republic which resents Brazil's activities most, but the others don't like them either, and the Latinists themselves recognize it. "The whole South American press," the important "Jornal do Brasil," has ranged itself unanimously against us. Even Uruguay, our traditional friend, has joined the current hostility against Brazil."

Just Proposals

A lot of propositions were left in the hands of committees, to report to the next conference. Some of these propositions have North American backing, but the Latin American press has remarked again and again that few of them get beyond the committee stage.

There's one, however, that probably will.

It provides for a plan by which all American countries will be represented at future conferences whether their governments have been recognized by the United States or not. Mexico, Peru, and Bolivia were kept out of the last conference in this way.

The new plan was opposed by the representatives of only two countries at Santiago—the United States and Brazil. They'll be invited at the next conference, of course.

The whole trouble with the United States at these conferences, as the South American press sees it, is that he doesn't understand the Latin American temperament or Latin American interests and isn't informed about Latin American events and she refuses positively to learn.

Carefree Gypsy Is the Worst Henpecked Husband in the World, Declares This Girl

Louise Rice, who studied gypsy life by going through the weird ceremony that made her a member of the tribe.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The worst henpecked husband in the world—is the carefree gypsy!

So says Louis Rice, authoress, who is known as the "losko gorgo"—the good stranger—of the many gypsy tribes that roosted round the country.

Studying the Romany race has been a hobby of Miss Rice. After many years she learned to talk the gypsy tongue.

"Finally," she says, "I gained confidence. But it was a long time before I went through the strange ceremony which permitted me to be a 'skirt and knife' member of the tribe. Then I was able to get behind the scenes and see the real life of the gypsy tribe."

"The gypsy woman is the real basis of tribal life. The man has no power except that which his wife allows him. He has no authority over the children. He is a pauper."

"But he is a whipping boy. He loves a good lie and will tell it with the greatest conviction. It is his pastime, his hobby, and no one who knows anything about the real Romany will ever believe what a man of the race tells him."

"Most gypsies in America are part Hungarian, Romanian, Russian or Spanish. Yet all of them adhere to the same ideas, superstitions and secret religion. They worship Isis, god of Egyptian mythology."

"The gypsies of today cover the same routes their ancestors have driven over for the past 200 years, but so secretive are they, unless they want to make some money, fortune telling or selling horses, the inhabitants of towns and villages seldom realize gypsies are in the vicinity."

Mr. Maxwell believes films should be based on novels. Any great novel he could be filmed. The novel he holds has atmosphere, retro-pieces and scene effects not found in plays.

As one of a family of 10, the future marquise swept the floors, helped in the kitchen and made her own clothes and hats. Her beauty happened to attract the attention of the multi-millionaire Italian Marquis Antoni-Visconti, during the siege of Paris, and in 1873 she became a marquise. The mistress of palatial homes, the witnesses of the marriage were Victor Hugo and Emmanuel Arago.

She turned away from her family saying, "I have warned them away." While her father was borrowing money to satisfy his half-brood goods, the marquise was presenting the magnificent chateau of Gasbeck to Belgium in the presence of the relatives.

After the ceremony refreshments were served and Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on the night train for points in Alabama to visit the groom's relatives. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sander are well known and popular young people of Nederland and their many friends wish them a long and prosperous married life. Mr. Sander holds a position with the Texas Company at Port Neches, and is a brother of Mrs. Dunn and Miss Matilda Sanderson. Also of Nederland, Mrs. Sanderson holds a responsible position with the Holland, Texas, Hibernian Bank in Port Arthur.

Mrs. Webber entertained her Sunday school class Friday afternoon in honor of Terlene Blackett's tenth birthday. Many amusing games were played and tempting refreshments of ice, whipped cream and cake were served to twelve young people present. Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Darr were in Beaumont Saturday.

Mrs. J. B. Cooke, Jr., went to Beaumont Monday.

Mrs. Ivy Jim Woodham returned to Port Worth Sunday after a pleasant visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Oakley.

MONTGOMERY HUNGER

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—Faithful followers of Mohammed, of whom there are a great number in California, will soon celebrate a month-long fast, termed by the Mohammedans a month of Ramazan. According to Mohammed Abdul Haqq, a low American minister of the eastern faith, one of the faith during that time will practically abstain from eating, drinking just enough food to tide them over the month.

DANCE HALL FRACAS

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., June 6.—Pancho Garcia was shot and killed and three other men and a 10-year-old boy seriously wounded in a gun battle at a dance hall seven miles below Brownsville. One of the wounded men got across to the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, but the other two, Lupe and Antonio Nunez, both seriously wounded, were placed under arrest, as was also Proprietor Daniel, his wife and several other participants in the affray. The boy was wounded by a stray bullet.

SKELETONS HIS HOBBY, HE SAYS

For 52 Years He Has Been Playing With Them

WASHINGTON, June 6.—"Bone dry," to W. Scholliek, doesn't signify strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

Neither does "bone" signify a bone pub.

The first, in his vocabulary, denotes a state of perfection in no wise allied to prohibition. The second, an instrument with which one earns his daily bread.

For the week of June 2 the White House ceases to be the executive mansion, residence of President Warren Gamaliel Harding. It becomes instead, the royal sceptre, palace of Noble Grandad Harding, high potentate of Aladdin Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Pennsylvania Avenue, historic thoroughfare down which our presidents ride to their inaugurations, has become "The Road to Mecca," along which will trudge some hundreds of thousands of Shrine pilgrims.

For 52 years Scholliek has lived among bones—preparing skeletons and skeletal specimens for anatomical and scientific exhibits. For 29 years he has been on the job for Uncle Sam, preparing skeletons for the national museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

Must Be Bone-Dry

In this time he has handled the skeletons of virtually every known bird, beast, fish and reptile from the hair-spring-sized bones of shad and minnows to the sawlog structures of 70-ton whale.

"Patience, preservation—and—a strong stomach." These Scholliek says are the chief requirements for an osteologist.

"It takes about two years properly to prepare the skeleton of a whale," he explains. "For animals of the deer and bear size from six months to a year."

The big problem in preparing a bone for indefinite preservation is to get it clean and bone dry. Not only must every bit of animal matter be removed from the exterior, but all the moisture and oil in the bone tissue and in the marrow must be eliminated. Otherwise, disintegration will set in.

After months of soaking in huge vats and careful cleansing outside, holes are drilled in the ends of the larger bones and they are subjected to a bath of live steam, under low pressure. The steam, entering the holes, penetrates the interior porous structure and cooks out any remaining oils.

He Remembers This One

Few chemicals are used in preparing bones for preservation, for while they assist in quick cleansing, they are injurious to the bone structure itself.

"What was your most memorable experience in your half-century of work?" I asked Scholliek, as he sat at his desk, eating his lunch, the half-finished skeleton of a bird on a dissecting tray in front of him.

"Well—" he said reminiscently, his nostrils twitching a trifle at the memory—"the skeleton of a skunk that had been in the rotting vat a month can't be altogether forgotten. Still, I guess my whale specimen topped 'em all."

"We'd had the head bones of a big sulphur-bellied whale in a rotting vat for about six months and wanted to get them out for scraping. They were pretty heavy, so we put a plank across the vat to stand on as we hoisted them out. I was on this plank, hoisting away on a big jaw-hoist, when the board slipped and I went Phew!"

"I never liked collecting. I never tried to kill things. I couldn't do that. But preparing the specimens for preservation—well, that's something else."

Trims Island and in See-Saw Match On Lakeshore

James Priester's Club Locates Offerings of New Island Homer for 10 Hits, While Cardinals Posture on Lauev for 6 Safeties

By BILL ARCHER

SLIPPER Nookie Priester's Texaco Stars knotted up the score on the City in the standing list again yesterday afternoon when they took the Islanders to a 6-4 trimming in a see-saw affair on Lakeshore.

The game went for six frames, and although the Texans jumped an early lead, rallies started in the third and fourth frame was locating the ball. Funk was called out on strikes. Martin flew out to Earhart. Kinks and Corley were issued passes and Cliff Gunn retired the side on called strikes.

A triple and two doubles netted the Texans two additional runs in the fifth, and the Islanders drew a tally on two singles and two walks in their turn. And the game was on record for the day, the sixth chapter to bring the Island crew to their toes with a slugger bat.

Lauev, who received the nomination for the Stars, was passed for seven safeties, while the Texans ponced upon Conley, hurling his first game in the City League for the Islanders, for a total of 10 hits and 16 bases.

Kaine hit a freak home run in the last of the fourth with one on that left the Texas Company in an awkward hole for a time, but the Priester boys came back strong and made up for it with singles for their victory.

The Texans scored a couple of tallies in the first frame, locating Conley with ease. Rodriguez opened the inning with a single and went to second on a passed ball. Mazorol doubled, scoring Rodriguez, and stole third while Romero was batting. The latter went out at first. Funk to Gilchrist, after the catcher had muffed a third strike. Burch singled and Mazorol trotted home for another run. Priester added to the misery for Conley and pasted out a single. Earhart whiffed, then the breezes three consecutive times and Corley, the new first sacker for the Texans who showed up good yesterday, retired the side with an out on called strikes.

Lauev allowed one hit in the last of the first, but managed to drop the Islanders without disaster. Gunn connected with a high fly to left and was out when Chubby Earhart sacked the ball after a near running catch. Karmaky singled. Gilchrist hit on a fielder's choice. Karmaky being caught at second, Priester to Romero. Black landed on one and Gilchrist went the route. Karmaky had taken. Romero to Priester, at second.

Conley showed his stuff in the first of the second stanza. Bell was the first batters up, and was issued a pass. Lauev sacrificed. Martin to Gilchrist, Bell going to second. Rodriguez sent him to third with another sacrifice. Conley to Gilchrist, and Bell was left standing on the bag when three strikes passed by on Mazorol.

In the last of the second, Lauev pitched in form, and made two strike outs of the three men who faced him. Kaine and Funk both drew whiffs, and Martin, who had replaced Rutherford in the first frame at third, was out at third. Lauev to Corley.

Another goose-neck fell for the Texans in the third frame. Romero hit a high one into Karmaky's hands and was out. Burch had three strikes called on him, and learned that Conley had some stuff to display. Priester went safe at first when Gilchrist dropped a ball delivered in his hands. Earhart hit into a play that caught Priester out at second. Black unassisted.

The Islanders started a rally in their half of the period and brought in one run and left a runner on base after two were down. Kinks struck out. Conley fouled out over the first base line. Corley making a neat catch. Gunn looked the offerings of Lauev over and pasted one for a neat Texas League. Karmaky added to his batting average for the day with another single, and Gunn stole home on the play while Karmaky stole second. Gilchrist drew an out at the initial station. Lauev to Corley.

Priester's lads made up for the count in the fourth and technically put the game on ice with a couple of runs. Corley singled in his turn at bat. Bell followed with a single, and Lauev sent them around with a sacrifice. Conley to Gilchrist. A wild pitch while Rodriguez was batting sent Corley in for a run. Bell taking third. Rodriguez hit to Kaine who threw him out at first, and Bell crossed the plate on an error when Gilchrist overthrew Funk at the home plate. Mazorol drew the third out when he attempted to bunt on the third strike.

The player shall be entitled to remove the flagstick and if the ball falls into the hole, the player shall be deemed to have holes out as his last stroke.

What are the rights of a player when some loose impediment on the putting green, in his opinion, interferes with his next shot?

Loose impediment may always be lifted from the putting green.

CRABS DEFEATED

GALVESTON, Texas, June 6.—San Antonio evened up the series by pounding Graham for 15 hits, winning 11 to 7. Fire Sandcrab errors figured largely in the scoring.

The Crabs rallied in the eighth and ninth but the Bears had a safe lead.

ST. LOUIS WINS, 10-3

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—St. Louis batted Romell hard in the opening, getting four runs, and then drove off the hill with three more counters in the fifth. St. Louis won 10 to 3.

Philadelphia ... 001 000 200—3 7 1

In the last of the fourth, the Islanders put across two runs and found Lauev for three passes to first and a freak circuit clout. Black opened the round for a walk. Kaine pounced on the first ball over and drove it down the first base line. He came home on the hit, sending Black in ahead of him, while Rodriguez

Tommy Jr. Sure Dad Will Win

Gibbons Jr. shows how dad'll do it

ST. PAUL, June 6.—Tommy Gibbons has no stancher supporter than his five-year-old son, Tommy Jr.

The younger Tommy is dead certain his scrapping dad will win his fight with Jack Dempsey at Shreveport, July 4.

"My dad," he assures the kids in his block, "he's going to hit that fellow a million times—like this!"

Then he swings a mean right cross by way of illustration. That pass has made Tommy Jr. supreme in the midget class in his neighborhood since the Gibbons family moved into its new home a couple weeks ago.

Like Tommy's youthful sparring partners, mouths open wide, close in around him.

GOLFING STARS, OFF FOR TIOTS

Rear Guard Leaves for Scotland's Meet

The rear vanguard of golfdom has drawn up to join the American invading forces in quest of the British open title at Troon, Scotland, on June 12.

Papyrus is owned by B. Irish, Pharo by Lord Derby, and Parth by M. Goudas.

In spite of the threatening weather there was a tremendous crowd on hand to witness the classic.

The only American owned entry was Foxhall Keene's Top Boot.

Town Guard, which was the favorite before the race, was ridden by Jockey Archibald, American.

The king and queen who customarily attend the Derby were absent because of the illness of Princess Christine. The Prince of Wales, however, was on hand.

With Sarazen and Farrell to take the place of Hutchison and the addition of Hoffner and Diegel, the American team should be far more dangerous than it was last year.

In Sarazen's case, this will be Farrell's first year on the British links. With Barnes it is an old story. Born on the other side, he has made three returns for the open cup. He finished sixth on two occasions and last year fell within a single shot of the "Ming."

Last year Hagen and Hutchison fared with Barnes and the three practically made a clean sweep of everything in their way. Hagen being the winner. The first time in history a home-bred golfer succeeded in coping the treasured trophy.

Barnes came second until Duncan, the Hagen of the British Isles, came along and tied things up. Hutchison finished fourth.

With Sarazen it is different. This being his first offense on the windswept courses of England, but great things are expected of the boy flash since his great showing of last year when he won the American Open, the P. G. A. title and the unofficial "world's championship" from Walter Hagen.

The struggle at Troon ought to be between Walter Hagen and Duncan, the two outstanding stars of today. Just as Hagen dominates the field in the States, so does Duncan abroad.

In the British open of 1922, Walter Hagen finished first with 300 and Duncan was second with 301.

CATS TAKE ONE

SHREVEPORT, La., June 6.—Kraft's home run in the first inning with a cat on every base destroyed what little hopes the Gassers had of victory on the home grounds and Fort Worth had an easy time in winning by the score of 18 to 3.

By innings:

St. Louis ... 723 010 212—18 22 1

Shreveport ... 000 100 020—3 7 1

Shocker, Kolp and Severeid; Romell, Walberg, Ogden and Perkins, Brugay.

MORE BUSINESS ENTERS FIELD OF SPORT NOW

While Less Sport Is Found In Business

NEW YORK, June 6.—Day by day there is getting to be more business in sport and less sport in business.

While Jack Dempsey is vacationing in Shreveport, Mont., ready to pick off a cool $300,000 for whatever he does on July 4 in a ring with Tom Gibbons. Luis Angel Firpo is down in Havana ready to knock down a hand-picked opponent for a few thousand pesos.

The fight promoters and baseball magnates have decided to call for competition and adjust their schedules so they won't conflict.

There has been a minor furor recently over the decreasing attendance at boxing carnivals and ball games in cases of conflict. Of course Jess Willard and Luis Firpo drew most of the customers who would have attended a game at the Polo Grounds the afternoon of their battle.

Then the Yankees drew a lot of prospective customers who might have attended the Criqui-Kilbane fuss last Saturday.

The owners of visiting clubs have raised a howl because Saturday afternoon in New York means a lot of money. The local park owners threatened to refuse to permit their parks to be used in the future for boxing and just when there seemed to be a nice little war ready, the affair was settled.

Henceforth and forever the boxing matches to be held here will be held at night when they conflict with baseball games.

It is figured that when fights are held in the cool of the summer evenings, the race fans and others will be attracted.

In this way the baseball owners and the fight promoters will be held together.

SHUT NATIONALS OUT

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Detroit combined hits with Washington errors to win the first game of the series 3 to 0. Cole was effective in the pinches. Spectacular catches by Cobb and Rice featured.

MILLION CARS LOADED, MOVED DURING MAY

WASHINGTON, June 6.—More than a million freight cars were loaded and moved during the last week in May.

A new record for this season of the year was set. It has only twice been exceeded in any season and the two bigger weeks both came during the peak of the crop movement in fall.

The betting fluctuated hourly up to the start of the race. During the night heavy support for Papyrus and Pharo was effective.

Born on the other side, he has made three returns for the open cup. He finished sixth on two occasions and last year fell within a single shot of the "Ming."

Most of the ripters avoided advising bets on Town Guard despite his popular favoritism, due to rumors that he had gone lame.

The odds were: Papyrus 100 to 15; Pharo 6 to 1; Part 23 to 1.

The time was two minutes, 40 seconds.
